A Word from the Director...

As director of the Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ), I am often asked about our juveniles. Who are these juveniles? What kinds of offenses have the juveniles in our system committed during the past year at various stages – intake, detention homes, and correctional centers? What does DJJ do to help these youth become better prepared for life’s challenges when they leave our care? More and more, these questions come not only from Virginians but also from those interested in juvenile justice across the country. We have several avenues available to us to provide this information: our Agency website (www.djj.virginia.gov), the new DJJ Partnership Newsletter, topical Research Quarterly issues produced by the Research and Evaluation section, and the annual publication of the Department of Juvenile Justice Data Resource Guide.

The past year has been one filled with both accomplishments and continued challenges for DJJ. We remain committed to working closely with our localities to reduce disproportionate minority contact within the juvenile justice system. DJJ has continued efforts to use secure detention appropriately, including a new partnership with the Annie E. Casey Foundation to improve detention practices. A DJJ-led task force was formed this year to develop strategies to identify youth at risk for gang membership and to reduce juvenile gang activities. We’ve focused on the services provided for juveniles in our juvenile correctional centers, adding new work-training opportunities supported by a grant from the U.S. Department of Labor. These and other initiatives have proceeded despite the continued strain on our financial and human resources.

Jerrauld C. Jones

From talking with others who work with juveniles, Virginia’s issues are not unique. However, I would like to think that our efforts represent some of the best practices in the country. Those involved with juvenile justice – staff in court service units, correctional centers, community programs, and central office, as well as our judges, court personnel, legislators, and staff at other agencies that serve youth in Virginia – strive to help our juveniles improve themselves while in our system. We don’t just want to lock young offenders up. We want to lift them up, in every possible way.

I believe that efforts to help our juveniles begin with informed data-driven decisions that always keep public safety at the forefront. To that end, DJJ is fortunate to have an automated data system that allows us to track juveniles’ progress from intake through parole. The Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice Data Resource Guide, now in its fourth edition, provides an invaluable source for much of this information; and quite frankly, is the first place I go when asked questions about our juveniles.

Many of you responded to last year’s survey for the FY 2003 Data Resource Guide. We looked at your comments and suggestions; kept what you told us worked for you and changed some things based on your feedback (including data on judge-ordered detentions, change the way we counted weekend admissions, and expand the section on juvenile reoffense rates to include data on specific juvenile programs). Please take a moment and complete this year’s survey – you may fax it back to the Research and Evaluation Section (804-371-0726). Ultimately, the information contained in this publication belongs to you – and we want to make sure that we are presenting this information to you in the most useful way possible.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation for those who helped make this publication possible. The Research and Evaluation Section, as well as staff from the Community and Institutional Programs divisions, worked tirelessly to collect, review, and publish this information. Staff from the court service units, detention homes, and juvenile correctional centers worked to make sure that this information was accurate and complete. Finally, this publication was greatly aided by a grant from the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, for which I am very appreciative.

I hope that you continue to find this information useful as you make decisions about the juveniles in your care. Thank you for your feedback about this publication and for your contributions to the information presented in the following pages.

Sincerely,

Director

Terms and Concepts

Adjudicatory Hearing: a hearing on merits where innocence or guilt is determined. Witnesses and testimony are presented, similar to a trial.

Behavioral Services Unit (BSU): located in the juvenile correctional centers (JCCs) and at the Reception and Diagnostic Center (RDC). In addition to traditional psychological evaluations and individual and group therapy, BSU currently operates Sex Offender Treatment programs in several JCCs, and oversees substance abuse treatment services. Staff consists of psychologists, clinical social workers, and clerical support.

Blended Sentence: the sentencing option of combining a juvenile disposition with an adult sentence for a juvenile convicted as an adult in Circuit Court. For a juvenile convicted of a violent juvenile felony in Circuit Court, COV §16.1-272 allows the Circuit Court to impose an adult sentence and allow a portion of that sentence to be served in a juvenile correctional center in accordance with COV §16.1-285.1. COV §16.1-272 also provides that the adult sentence can be suspended pending successful completion of the juvenile disposition.

Certification: applicable if the juvenile is 14 or older. There are two types: (1) If a juvenile is accused of certain serious felonies, the case will be automatically certified to the Circuit Court if the Juvenile and Domestic Relations judge finds probable cause that the act was committed; (2) If a juvenile is accused of other serious felonies, the case is certified to the Circuit Court if the Commonwealth's Attorney files a motion for a preliminary hearing on probable cause, and the judge finds probable cause. Any juvenile convicted in Circuit Court after certification will be treated as an adult in all future criminal cases.

CHINS: a Child in Need of Services is a child whose behavior, conduct, or condition presents or results in a serious threat to the well-being and physical safety of that child. A Child in Need of Services may also include a child under the age of 14 who presents a serious threat to the well-being and physical safety of another person. To meet the definition of CHINS, there must be a clear and substantial danger to the life or health of the child or another person.

CHINSup: a Child in Need of Supervision is one who is habitually and without justification absent from school despite opportunity and reasonable efforts to keep him/her in school. CHINSup may also refer to a child who habitually runs away from his or her family or lawful custodian, or who escapes from a residential care court placement.

Commitment: an order by a judge at the dispositional hearing that transfers a delinquent juvenile's legal custody to the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ). To be eligible for commitment, a juvenile must be 11 years of age or older and adjudicated delinquent or convicted of a felony offense, a Class 1 misdemeanor and a prior felony, or four Class 1 misdemeanors. Depending on the circumstances, the court may commit the juvenile for a determinate or an indeterminate period of time. (See COV §16.1-278.8.)

Commitment versus Admission: a commitment is a court action placing a juvenile in the custody of DJJ for placement in a JCC or a private secure facility. An admission occurs when a juvenile physically arrives at a facility and is officially entered into the facility's rolls. An admission to RDC may occur days or weeks after the juvenile is committed to DJJ (during which time he or she is in secure detention). A single admission could be the result of multiple commitments to DJJ (for example, a juvenile may be committed to DJJ by more than one District Court, prior to admission to RDC). For these reasons, the number of commitments to DJJ in a fiscal year will be slightly different from the number of admissions to RDC.

Court Service Unit (CSU): the Department's major provider of services (intake, investigations and reports, probation, parole, counseling, and other related services) within the community.

Code of Virginia (COV): legal code of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Detention: placement in a secure facility resulting in a loss of physical freedom.

Detention Assessment Instrument (DAI): detention screening tool used by CSU intake officers to guide detention decisions using objective criteria. A copy of the DAI is included in Appendix K.

Detention Hearing: judicial hearing held within 72 hours of initial custody that determines a youth's proper detention status while awaiting an adjudicatory hearing. The court may subpoena witnesses to assist in determining probable cause.

Detention Home: temporary holding facility for serious juvenile offenders awaiting an adjudicatory hearing or placement in a community program. Individuals may be held no longer than 21 days prior to their adjudicatory hearings without just cause and/or five days following the disposition hearing (up to 15 if necessary) while awaiting placement in a program. Juveniles also may be placed in a detention home post-dispositionally.

Detention Placements versus Detention Admissions: a detention placement is based on a decision made by an intake officer or judge to detain a juvenile. A detention admission is when a juvenile enters a facility either through direct placement or through transfer. Therefore, during one detention placement, a juvenile may have several detention admissions.

Determinate Commitment: ruling by a judge, pursuant to COV §16.1-285.1, who retains control over the commitment time of a juvenile who committed a serious offense. The judge specifies an exact time period for commitment. The juvenile comes under judicial review after a two-year period. If not released, the youth then has an annual hearing before the judge who made the initial commitment.

Dispositional Hearing: a hearing in a juvenile case (similar to a sentencing hearing in a criminal court) that determines the proper path for treatment services and sanctions.

Diversion: a juvenile offender is diverted out of the official court process, and the case is handled informally.

Domestic Relations: all references to this term include both domestic relations as well as child welfare.

Fiscal Year: time period measured for this report as FY 2004 (July 1, 2003 through June 30, 2004).

Group Home: a program that provides a residential placement in a non-secure environment. Services may include: residential care; group, family, and individual counseling; assessment and anger management; life skills; recreation; educational support; etc. Placements can be pre- or post-dispositional.

Halfway House: transitional residential placement for juveniles on parole that provides services such as independent living skills, employment skills, and work experience.

Indeterminate Commitment: a ruling by a judge giving the Director of DJJ the authority to determine how long the juvenile will remain committed. There are parameters for this commitment such as the juvenile's 21st birthday, a 36-month statutory maximum length of stay (LOS) for all offenses except murder or manslaughter (COV §16.1-285), and DJJ's policy.

Intake Case: an occurrence of a juvenile being brought before a CSU for one or more alleged violations of law. This process of initial acceptance and screening is used to determine appropriateness of release or referral to formal action via petition. An intake officer at the CSU decides which path the case will follow. One case can involve multiple intake complaints. May be referred to simply as an "intake."

Intake Complaint: the specific violation of law that a juvenile is alleged to have committed.

Juvenile Correctional Center (JCC): a facility for juveniles committed to state care where juveniles receive 24-hour supervision, education, treatment services, recreational services, and a variety of special programs.

Length of Stay Guidelines (LOS): a framework established by the Board of Juvenile Justice, as mandated by law, to determine how long indeterminately committed juveniles will remain in the custody of the Department. Factors that affect a ward's length of stay include the seriousness of the offense, the juvenile's history of offense behavior, the juvenile's behavior while in direct care, and the juvenile's progress toward completing treatment goals.

Nolle Prosequi: decision of prosecutors to dismiss charges against defendants - Latin for "unwilling to prosecute."

Parole: continued supervision and monitoring of an individual after release from commitment in a JCC or a privately contracted facility.

Petition: a document filed at court intake alleging that a juvenile is delinquent, a child in need of services, supervision, or for domestic purposes and asking that the court assume jurisdiction over the juvenile.

Post-disposition (Post-D): the period of time between the final disposition and final release from supervision.

Post-dispositional Detention: the juvenile court's dispositional option of placing a juvenile in a secure local detention facility for up to 30 days or for up to six months. To be eligible for post-dispositional detention, a juvenile must be 14 years of age or older and found to have committed an offense punishable by confinement in a state or local correctional facility as defined in COV §53.1-1. Offenses confineable in a local or state correctional facility include felonies and Class 1 and Class 2 misdemeanors. In addition, COV §16.1-284.1 and §16.1-292 provide additional statutory criteria that need to be satisfied prior to placement.

Post-dispositional Detention with Programs versus Post-dispositional Detention without Programs: post-dispositional detention with programs involves structured programs of treatment and services given to youth who have been sentenced by a judge. Programs are typically designed for 180 days and are intended to maintain and/or build community ties. Post-dispositional detention without programs involves the sentencing of a juvenile by a judge to a detention facility for short periods of time without full services being provided.

Pre-disposition (Pre-D): the period of time from when charges are filed until the court makes a final disposition.

Pre-disposition Report: document prepared by a probation officer in preparation for a dispositional hearing that considers the court history of the juvenile, physical or mental examinations, the juvenile's family, and previous contact with other agencies. It assists the court in selecting the most appropriate dispositional sanctions and services.

Pre-dispositional Detention: confinement in a secure residential placement while a juvenile is awaiting a court disposition. To be eligible to be detained prior to disposition, the judge, intake officer, or a magistrate must find probable cause establishing that the juvenile committed a Class 1 misdemeanor or a felony. In addition, the juvenile must be a clear and substantial threat to another person, the property of others, or to himself. COV §16.1-248.1 provides additional circumstances in which a juvenile may be detained.

Private Provider: company or non-state entity that is under contract with DJJ to provide direct-care residential beds and treatment services for committed youth.

Probation: alternative to commitment that requires a specified level of supervision for juveniles who remain in the community.

Reception and Diagnostic Center (RDC): location to which committed juveniles are initially sent after the dispositional hearing and preceding placement in a JCC.

Recidivism: as defined by DJJ, a recidivist is a person who is found by a court to have committed, after being (a) placed on probation or (b) released from confinement, a delinquent or criminal act other than violation of probation or parole. (See also Reoffending.)

Region: in order to better manage the use of community resources statewide, the Department divides Virginia into three geographical Regions: Region I (Western), Region II (Northern), and Region III (Eastern). (See page 17 for a description of the three Regions.)

Reoffending (Measures of): three measures used in this document are: (1) Rearrest- a petition filed at intake for a new delinquent complaint or an adult arrest for a new criminal offense; (2) Reconviction- a guilty adjudication for a delinquent or criminal offense, which is the only measure of reoffending that meets the Department's definition of recidivism; (3) Reincarceration- any return to incarceration in a JCC or adult facility after having been previously released from a JCC.

Risk Assessment Instrument: tool used to identify juveniles at risk for reoffending.

Serious Juvenile Offender: a ward who was committed to the Department and given a determinate commitment as a serious offender under COV §16.1-285.1.

Shelter Care: detainment option that provides non-secure detention. Juvenile is placed in a group home or under foster care with no form of physical imprisonment.

Status Offense: an act prohibited by law that would not be an offense if committed by an adult. (See also CHINS/CHINSup).

Temporary Detention: transfer to a mental health facility from a JCC. This decision is made by a judge following a recommendation from the BSU that treatment for an acute mental health condition is needed.

Transfer: a means of moving a case from Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court to Circuit Court. Applicable when a juvenile 14 or older is accused of a felony other than those warranting certification or if the Commonwealth's Attorney decides not to seek certification to Circuit Court and files papers requesting a transfer. In order to transfer a case to the Circuit Court, a transfer hearing must be held during which a judge must determine that the act would be a felony if committed by an adult and must also examine issues of competency and the juvenile's history. Any juvenile convicted in Circuit Court after transfer will be treated as an adult in all future criminal cases.

Violent Juvenile Felony: any of the delinquent acts enumerated in subsection B or C of COV §16.1-269.1 when committed by a juvenile 14 years of age or older. The offenses generally fall into the categories of murder, felonious injury by mob, abduction, malicious wounding, malicious wounding of a law enforcement officer, felonious poisoning, adulteration of products, robbery, carjacking, rape, forcible sodomy, or sexual object penetration. (See COV §16.1-228 for definition.)

Waiver: a request initiated by the juvenile, 14 years or older (and a guardian), prior to the adjudicatory hearing that seeks to waive the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court and have the case transferred to the Circuit Court. (Pursuant to COV §16.1-270.)

Ward: a juvenile that has been committed to the DJJ to serve a sentence.

Weekender: a juvenile sentenced by a judge to serve a certain number of days in detention, typically served on weekends. The juvenile remains in school during the week and, typically, enters the detention home Friday after school and remains until Sunday.

An Overview of the Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice

Juveniles from the Virginia Wilderness Institute (VWI) observed the General Assembly proceedings, were recognized on the floor, and met their local representatives.

Introduction to the Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice

To accomplish its Mission, the Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) provides an integrated approach to juvenile justice. We bring together current research and best practices to better understand and modify delinquent behavior, to meet the needs of offenders, victims, and communities, and to manage our activities and resources in a responsible and proactive manner.

A BALANCED APPROACH

DJJ responds to juvenile offenders through a balanced approach that provides: (1) protection of public safety by control of a juvenile's liberty through secure confinement and/or community supervision; (2) a structured system of incentives and graduated sanctions in both institutional and community settings to ensure accountability for the juvenile's actions; and (3) a variety of services and programs that build skills and competencies (e.g., substance abuse treatment, support for academic and vocational education, anger management classes) to enable the juvenile to become a law-abiding member of the community upon release from DJJ's supervision.

INDIVIDUALIZED, RISK-BASED SERVICES

DJJ is committed to the principle that the greatest impact on juvenile offending can be realized by focusing resources on those juvenile offenders with the highest risk of reoffending and by addressing the individual criminogenic/risk factors that contribute to the initiation and continuation of delinquent behavior. Using a set of research and consensus-based instruments at different decision points within the juvenile justice system, DJJ classifies juveniles into different levels of "risk." These points include the initial decision to detain, the assignment to various levels of community probation or parole supervision, and the classification of committed juveniles to guide appropriate placement within the institutional setting.

In addition to the matching of the most intensive resources to those juveniles with the highest "risk," DJJ recognizes that successful responses to juvenile crime require tailored, individualized responses to the needs of juveniles, families, and communities. The presence of specific risk factors are assessed and responded to in order to increase the likelihood of successful outcomes. Issues implicated in juvenile offending include gang involvement, substance abuse, anger management, truancy, and other school-related problems. The application of appropriate social control and sanctioning strategies such as electronic monitoring, urine drug testing, and various levels of supervision are also matched to the juvenile's individualized circumstances. Incentives such as early release from supervision, extended curfew, and tangible rewards such as recreational outings with volunteers are used to reward success and improve the chances of long-term behavior change.

DATA-DRIVEN MANAGEMENT

Over the past several years, DJJ has greatly enhanced its ability to effectively plan for and manage juveniles, programs, services, and other resources. DJJ designed functional management information systems and used the data generated and reported from these systems to better understand the

MISSION OF THE VIRGINIA DEPARTMENT OF JUVENILE JUSTICE

To protect the public through a balanced approach of comprehensive services that prevent and reduce delinquency through partnerships with families, schools, communities, law enforcement, and other agencies, while providing the opportunity for delinquent youth to develop into responsible and productive citizens.

offender population, activities in relation to those offenders, and methods to become more effective and efficient. The Juvenile Tracking System (JTS) is comprised of modules covering the full range of institutional and community-based activities. DJJ's philosophy is that sound management of public resources and adherence to our core Mission cannot be accomplished without input provided from comprehensive data-based practices.

COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIPS

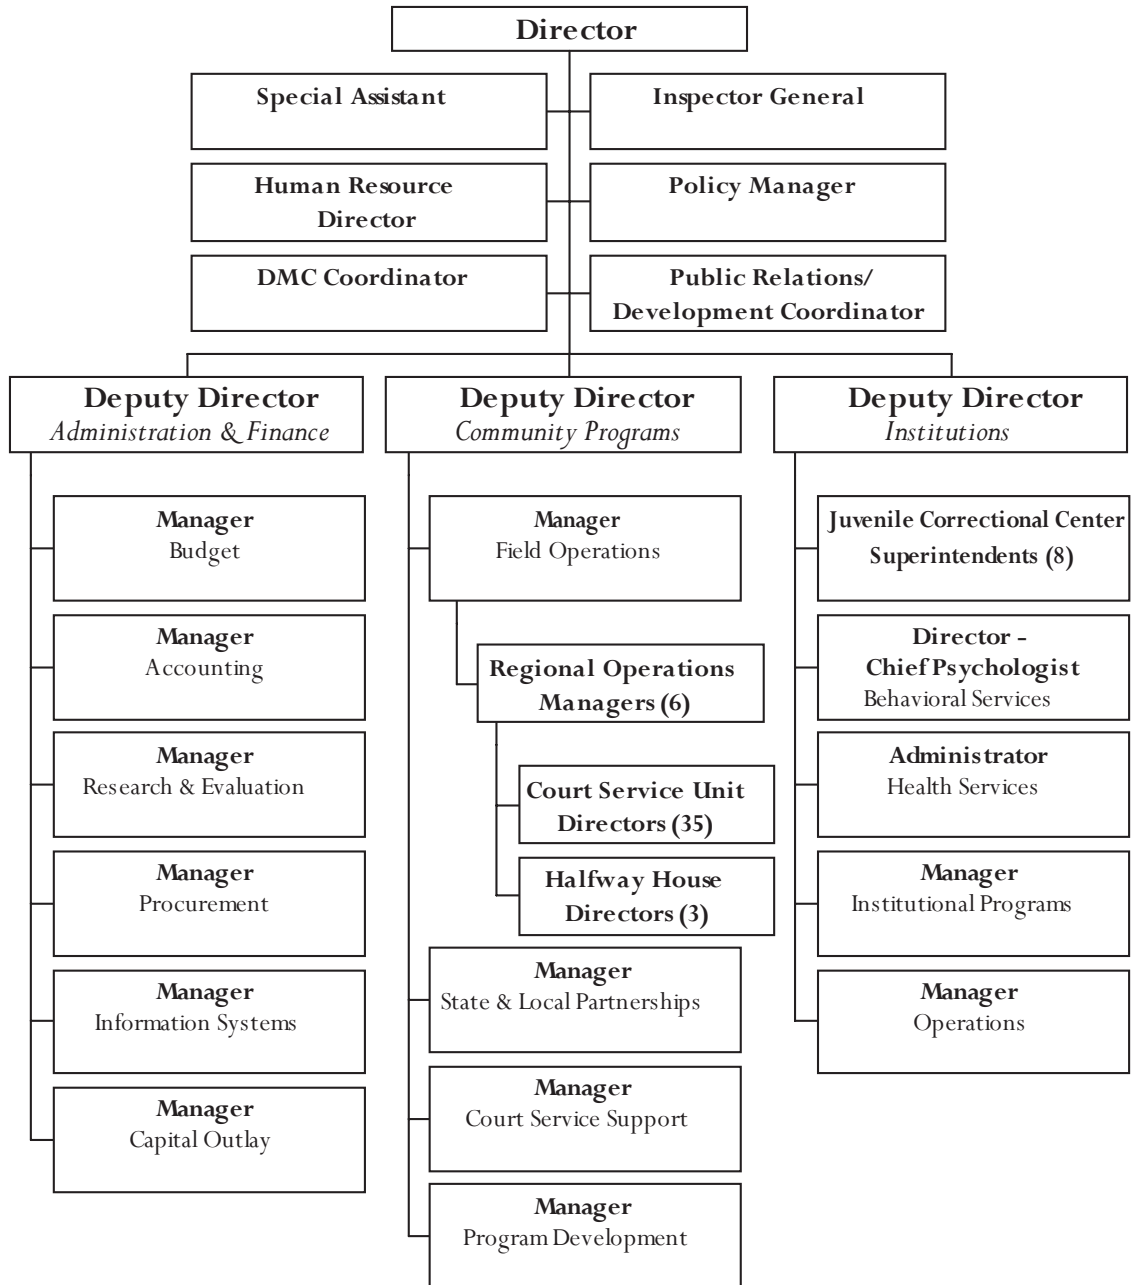

While DJJ has the primary responsibility for many aspects of Virginia's juvenile justice system, collaborative partnerships with state and local agencies and programs, as well as with private sector service providers, is the cornerstone of the DJJ approach. Local governments operate a network of secure detention facilities and an array of services addressing each aspect of the balanced approach. Within each community DJJ works with law enforcement, behavioral health providers, schools, social services, and other agencies. Securing services from private providers assists DJJ in meeting the needs of juvenile offenders, their families, and communities. At the state level DJJ works with other executive, legislative, and judicial branch agencies in a similar manner.

Through the application of the integrated approach to juvenile justice, DJJ continues to make a difference in the lives of citizens and communities across the Commonwealth. Through responsible resource management, performance accountability, and sound intervention strategies, DJJ strives to improve and meet the changing demands of juvenile justice practice.

Organizational Chart

A FLOWCHART OF A JUVENILE'S PROGRESSION THROUGH THE SYSTEM

STEPS IN THE JUVENILE JUSTICE SYSTEM

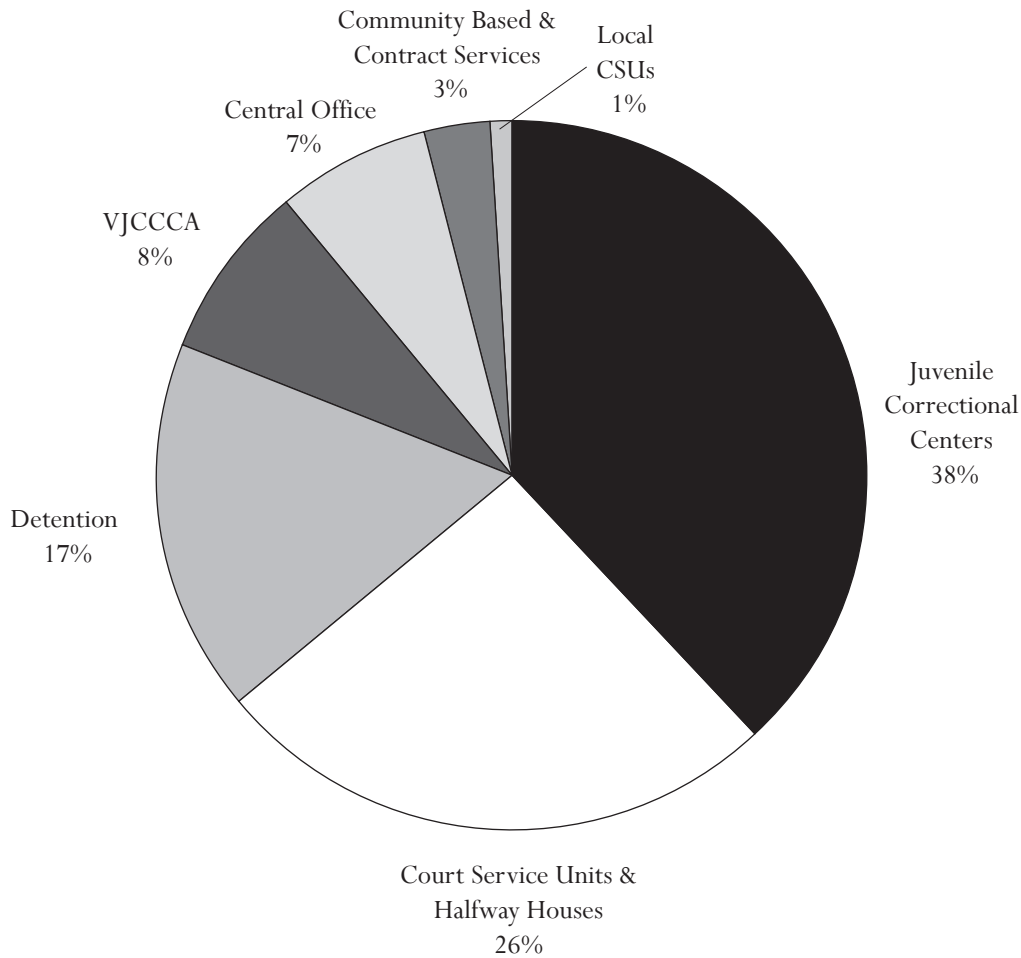

1. The juvenile enters the system when an offense is committed and reported by a parent, citizen, agency complaint, or the police.
2. If the juvenile entered the system through police contact, a decision is made to either counsel and release the youth back to the community or to arrest. If a parent, citizen, or agency made the complaint, the complaint goes to intake.
3. An intake officer at the court service unit makes the decision whether to take informal action such as crisis-shelter care, detention outreach, or counseling; to take no action; or to file a petition. In some cases, a police officer or the original complainant will appeal to the magistrate if they disagree with the intake officer's decision. The magistrate must certify the charge, and the matter is returned to intake to file a petition.
4. Once a petition has been filed, an intake officer decides if the juvenile should be detained or released to his or her parents/guardians. The decision is based on the juvenile's risk to self, community, or flight and is guided by completion of the Detention Assessment Instrument.
5. If the decision is made to detain the juvenile, a detention hearing is held within 72 hours in the Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court to determine the need for further detention and examine the merits of the charges.
6. A preliminary hearing is held to ensure that the case has enough merit to carry it to trial. Issues of competency, insanity, subpoenas, and witnesses are addressed also. If no probable cause exists, the case is dismissed. If cause is determined, the case moves to the adjudicatory hearing. Also during this phase, issues of transfers and waivers are addressed by the court. If certification is ordered or a direct indictment issued, the case goes to the Circuit Court (see sections 12-13).
7. Innocence or guilt is determined at the adjudicatory hearing. Witnesses and testimony are presented similar to an adult trial. If found not guilty, the case is dismissed. If found guilty, a dispositional hearing is held.
8. At the dispositional hearing, the pre-disposition report (social history) is used to assist in selecting appropriate sanctions and services. The court decides if the juvenile will be committed to DJJ or face community sanctions such as warnings, restitutions, or fines. A conditional disposition may be imposed such as probation, which includes participation in CSU programs, referral to local services or facilities, to other agencies, to private placement, or to post-dispositional detention. Once the requirements have been met, the juvenile is released by the court.
9. If committed to DJJ, the juvenile must undergo psychological, educational, social, and medical evaluations conducted at RDC.
10. From RDC, the juvenile may go to a privately operated residential facility or a juvenile correctional center (JCC). At the JCC, a committed juvenile receives 24-hour supervision, education, treatment services, recreational services, and a variety of special programs.
11. After completion of the commitment period, a juvenile may be placed on parole or directly released. During parole, the juvenile transitions to the community through agency program efforts and is afforded local services. Some juveniles may need 24-hour residential care and treatment services provided by a halfway house. Upon completion of parole or entry into the adult criminal justice system, the youth is discharged from the juvenile system.
12. A case may be sent into the appeals process following the dispositional hearing. After presentation to the Circuit Court, the case is reconsidered and the issue of guilt is examined. If the juvenile is found not guilty, the case is dismissed. If found guilty, the Circuit Court judge administers an appropriate juvenile disposition.
13. If the Circuit Court received the case through a direct indictment, a trial will take place. If found not guilty, the case is dismissed. If found guilty, the judge will decide whether to render a juvenile disposition or an adult sentence.

Community Programs

Juveniles from Prince William Detention Home's Post-D Program placed third in a national "Helping Hands" quilt contest.

Introduction to Community Programs

The Division of Community Programs is responsible for providing a continuum of community-based services to juvenile offenders. The following briefly describes these services:

COURT SERVICE UNIT FUNCTIONS

Juvenile Intake

Intake services are provided 24 hours a day at each of the 35 court service units (CSUs) across the state. The intake officer on duty, or CSU staff on call after business hours, has the authority to receive, review, and process complaints. This may involve diversion and referral to other community resources for first-time, low-level offenders.

Based on the information gathered, a determination is made whether or not a petition should be filed with the Juvenile Court and, if so, whether or not the juvenile should be released to a parent or another responsible adult, placed in a detention alternative, or detained pending a court hearing. Decisions by DJJ intake officers concerning detention are guided by the completion of the Detention Assessment Instrument (DAI). Implemented in November 2002, the DAI is expected to make detention decisions more consistent by using standard criteria. An evaluation of the initial implementation of this instrument was completed in 2004. (See Appendix K for a copy of the instrument.)

Investigations and Reports

Social histories make up the majority of the reports that CSU personnel complete. These court-ordered investigations describe the social adjustment of the youth before the court or receiving services. A risk assessment instrument is completed at the same time as the social history, letting the court know the juvenile's relative risk of reoffending. (See Appendix H for a copy of this instrument.) The information in the social history and risk assessment provides the basis for the CSU to develop appropriate services for the juvenile and the family, determine the level of supervision needed based on risk classification, and make recommendations to the court regarding the most appropriate disposition for the case.

Other reports and investigations completed by CSU personnel may include substance abuse evaluations, case summaries to the Family Assessment and Planning Teams, commitment packets for the Reception and Diagnostic Center, interstate compact reports, transfer reports, and ongoing case documentation.

Domestic Relations

In addition to handling delinquency and Child in Need of Service/Supervision complaints, CSUs provide intake services for domestic relations complaints. These include non-support, family abuse, adjudication of custody (permanent and temporary), abuse and neglect, termination of parental rights, visitation rights, paternity, and emancipation. In some CSUs, services such as treatment referral, supervision, and counseling are provided in adult cases of domestic violence.

Custody Investigations

Although the majority of custody investigations for the court are performed by the local Department of Social Services, some CSUs perform investigations to provide recommendations to the court on parental custody and visitation based on the best interests of the child and defined criteria in the COV. The investigation includes an extensive review of the home environment and background of the child's parents or caretakers, including any individuals living in the home, and the role and relationship of the parents and caretakers of the child.

Probation

The most frequently used disposition for those juveniles adjudicated guilty is probation supervision. Juvenile probation in Virginia strives to achieve a balanced approach, focusing on the principles of community protection (public safety), accountability, and competency development.

Parole Services

Upon release from state commitment, offenders are provided parole services, initiated when a juvenile is committed to DJJ, to assist in the transition back to the community. Parole services build on the programs that the juvenile received during the period of secure confinement in the JCCs. Parole supervision focuses upon the balanced approach. Protection of public safety is emphasized through a level system of supervision based on the juvenile's assessed risk of reoffending and adjustment to rules and expectations. The period of parole varies according to the juvenile's needs, level of risk, offense history, and adjustment. Supervision may last until the juvenile's 21st birthday.

Parole officers are assigned to offenders to provide case management services, facilitate appropriate transitional services, and monitor adjustment to the community. Juveniles may receive family and individual counseling, referral to other community services, vocational services, or specialized educational services. These services are provided statewide by a network of approved vendors from which the local CSUs purchase programs and services for paroled juveniles and their families.

INTERSTATE COMPACT ON JUVENILES

The Interstate Compact on Juveniles (ICJ) unit provides for the cooperative supervision of probationers and parolees moving from state to state and the return of runaways, absconders, and escapees. All 50 states, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands, and Guam are participants of the Compact. The ICJ mandates each state to provide services per the Compact requirements. Probation and parole services for ICJ cases are to be provided in the same manner and at the same level as provided to residents of that state.

VIRGINIA JUVENILE COMMUNITY CRIME CONTROL ACT (VJCCCA)

Funding is provided to local governments through the VJCCCA to design and implement services to meet the needs of juveniles before the court in their localities.

With a plan approved by the Board of Juvenile Justice, localities may purchase or develop and operate programs and services that are pre- or post-dispositional, diversionary, residential, or non-residential.

COMPREHENSIVE SERVICES ACT (CSA)

Developed to help at-risk youth and families, the CSA is a child-centered, community-based, collaborative system of services and funding. CSUs may refer juveniles to local, interdisciplinary Family Assessment and Planning Teams (FAPT). Representatives from DJJ, by law, are members of the local FAPT. When local funding is available, the FAPT may assess a youth's strengths and needs in order to develop and implement a service plan to meet those needs.

DETENTION

Most secure detention facilities are operated by local governments or multi-jurisdictional commissions. DJJ provides partial funding for construction and operations and serves as the regulatory agency for these facilities. The only state-operated secure detention facility is located in Culpeper, adjacent to Culpeper Juvenile Correctional Center. These physically secure residential programs provide temporary care for delinquents and alleged delinquents who require secure custody pending a court appearance. All detention facilities utilize the Detention Module of JTS to capture data on admissions and releases.

Educational instruction (including remedial services) is mandatory within 24 hours of any youth being detained and is provided by the locality in which the detention facility is located (funded by the Department of Education). Program components include medical and mental health screening, recreational and religious activities, and parental or guardian visitation.

Many detention programs provide secure custody and services for post-dispositional delinquents as an alternative to state commitment as an option for judges pursuant to §16.1-284.1 of the COV. In a post-dispositional "program," secure beds are designated for juveniles for up to 180 days. In these post-dispositional programs, treatment services are coordinated by the detention facility, the CSU, local mental health and social service agencies, and the juvenile's family.

Shenandoah Valley Juvenile Detention Home

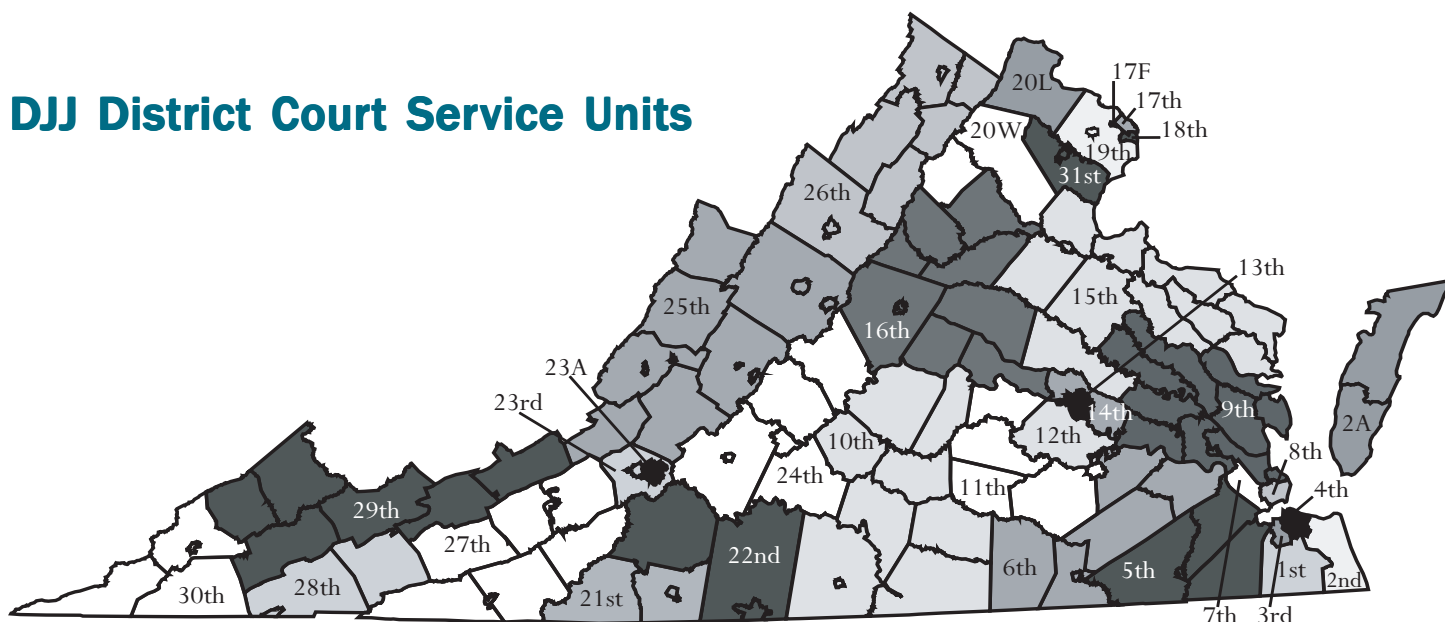

These services are tailored to meet the specific needs of that juvenile. Examples of facility-based and community-based services for post-dispositional youth include anger management, substance abuse education and treatment, life skills, vocational education, community service, restitution, and victim empathy. During FY 2004, thirteen facilities had post-dispositional programs: Fairfax, Highlands, James River, Loudoun, Lynchburg, Merrimac, New River Valley, Norfolk, Northern Virginia, Northwestern, Prince William, Roanoke, and W.W. Moore. Out of 1,292 licensed secure detention beds in FY 2004, 122 beds were dedicated to post-dispositional programs. Recidivism rates for post-dispositional programs is provided in the Reoffense Rates section.

HALFWAY HOUSES

The Department operates three halfway houses and contracts for one privately-operated independent living program. These facilities are designed to provide transitional skills to juveniles released from the JCCs.

Each halfway house program is designed to take advantage of the unique resources available in its community to meet the needs of the residents. Upon completion of the program, the resident will have gained additional skills to promote a continued positive adjustment and reduce the risk of recidivism.

- Data presented in this table reflect JCC commitments and detention placements. Therefore, the data may not be comparable to other tables.
- To account for variations in reporting across jurisdictions a single intake case includes all complaints reported for a single juvenile, on a single day, within a single locality.
- Between FY 2002 and FY 2004:
 - Juvenile Intakes decreased 2.2%.
 - New Probation Cases decreased 6.6%.
 - Pre-D Detention placements decreased 20.3%.
 - Commitments to the State decreased 13.6%.

Virginia Juvenile Community Crime Control Act (VJCCCA)

A legislative study on the lack of alternatives to detention and substantial revisions to the juvenile code led the 1995 Virginia General Assembly to pass the Virginia Juvenile Community Crime Control Act (VJCCCA) “to establish a community-based system of progressive intensive sanctions and services that correspond to the severity of offense and treatment needs” (COV §16.1-309.2). The purpose of the VJCCCA is “to deter crime by providing immediate, effective punishment that emphasizes accountability of the juvenile offender for his actions as well as reduces the pattern of repeat offending” (COV §16.1-309.2).

Since January 1996, funding has been allocated to each local governing body (an independent city or county) through a formula based on factors including the number and types of arrests in a locality and the average daily cost for serving a child. In order to maintain their commitment to youth, participating localities must maintain the same level of contribution to these programs that they made in 1995.

LOCALITIES DEVELOP PLANS

Participation in VJCCCA is voluntary, although all 134 cities and counties in Virginia participate. Each jurisdiction must develop a plan for how it will use the funding and have that plan approved by the Board of Juvenile Justice. Some localities have combined programs and funding across jurisdictions. Communities are given substantial autonomy and flexibility to address local juvenile crime patterns. Development of the plan requires consultation with judges, court service unit directors, and Comprehensive Services Act Community Policy and Management Teams (an interagency body that manages the expenditure of state funding to serve children and families). The local governing body designates who will be responsible for developing and managing the plan. In over one-half of the localities, this responsibility has been delegated to the court service unit.

All funding must be used to serve “juveniles before intake on complaints or the court on petitions alleging that the juvenile is a child in need of services, child in need of supervision or delinquent” (COV §16.1-309.2). Local governing bodies may provide services directly or purchase them from other public or private agencies. No specific types of programs or services are required. The intent is for programs and services to be developed to fit the needs of each locality.

- 85% of FY 2004 juveniles met the statutory criteria for detention.
- 52% of FY 2004 juveniles met the statutory criteria for commitment.

• Juveniles Served by VJCCCA Programs (FY 2004):

- Most likely to be white, 16 or 17 years old, and male.

• VJCCCA Funding (FY 2004):

- These data are preliminary, based on budget appropriations of FY 2004. They do not reflect final actual expenditures as these data were not fully reconciled at the time of printing. It is not anticipated, however, that these preliminary figures will vary significantly.
- The State and Localities were expected to spend a combined total of $26,534,863 on services.
- Nearly one-half of funding expended on VJCCCA was local funding.

• Program Placements by Types of Services (FY 2004):

- 46% of VJCCCA program placements focused on public safety through electronic monitoring, outreach detention, surveillance and intensive supervision, less secure detention, and crisis intervention.
- Competency services accounted for 25% of program placements.
- Accountability programs (e.g., community service, restitution, and restorative justice) provided services to 25% of VJCCCA placements.

• Placements by Dispositional and Residential Status (FY 2004):

- Residential program placements typically provide more intensive public safety and/or competency services than non-residential programming. About 13% of placements fell into this category in FY 2004. Non-residential program placements accounted for 87%.
- Almost half of the program placements were post-dispositional.

• Program Completions (FY 2004) as reported by VJCCCA Programs:

AVERAGE DAILY POPULATION VS CAPACITY, FY 2001-2007

*Forecast numbers are the June values for each FY.

In FY 2002, the Department of Juvenile Justice, in conjunction with the Governor's Inmate Population Forecast Committee, began producing a projection of local juvenile detention homes' average daily population. The most recent forecast projects the detention home population to decrease by 1.3% from FY 2004 to FY 2007. This modest decrease is based on an expected decline in detainable intake cases coupled with the increased use of Post-D detention.

It is important to note that the forecast numbers shown in the table are the June values for each fiscal year.

Halfway Houses

In FY 2004, the Department of Juvenile Justice operated three state-run halfway houses to meet the transitional needs of juveniles released from juvenile correctional centers. DJJ operated Hampton Place located in Norfolk, Abraxas House in Staunton, and Discovery House in Roanoke. Discovery House is the only facility that houses both male and female residents. A privately operated halfway house (Harriet Tubman) program was used by DJJ through FY 2002.

The purpose of a halfway house is to provide transitional living for juveniles who are unable to return home or whose service needs make this type of placement beneficial. Residents learn independent living skills and are required to enroll in school, work towards a GED, and/or be gainfully employed. Residents are placed on parole supervision during their stay at the halfway house. Substance abuse relapse services and sex offender relapse treatment are provided by public or private service providers with the use of transitional service funds. Upon completion of residence at a halfway house, juveniles may return to their families or live independently.

Commitment to the State

Juveniles in the Youth Industries Electrical Program

Introduction to Institutional Programs

The Division of Institutional Programs has direct responsibility for juvenile offenders who have been committed to the state. It operates the Reception and Diagnostic Center (RDC), juvenile correctional centers (JCCs), and contracts with private providers to house these juveniles and ensure that they receive treatment and educational services while in a safe and secure setting.

The seven JCCs and RDC had a combined operating capacity of 1,143 in FY 2004. The Behavioral Services Unit, Central Infirmary, and Food Services Unit provide support to the correctional centers. The Department of Correctional Education (DCE) also helps by meeting educational needs of the committed juveniles. To supplement the number of JCC beds, DJJ contracts with private providers. These contractors provide direct-care community residential beds and treatment services for committed youth.

In April 2004, DJJ began placing juveniles into the Community Placement Program (CPP) at Shenandoah Valley Juvenile Detention Home. This program is designed to serve indeterminately committed males who are between the ages of 14 and 17 with shorter lengths of stay and no defined sex offender treatment need. The program operates in a secure residential setting offering community reintegration and specialized services. Additional programs following this model are currently being pursued by DJJ.

RECEPTION AND DIAGNOSTIC CENTER (RDC)

The first encounter a juvenile has with a correctional center occurs at RDC, the central intake facility for committed youth. It was established in 1968 and currently consists of seven housing units; six for males and one for females. The juveniles range in age from 11 to 20, and the average length of stay at RDC is slightly more than six weeks. The primary function of RDC is the orientation, evaluation, and classification of juveniles. All youth receive medical and dental examinations in addition to a psychological screening and evaluation. Sex offender evaluations are also performed at RDC. Each juvenile receives a battery of tests from the DCE staff to identify the appropriate educational level, vocational aptitude, and any special educational needs. RDC counselors are responsible for coordination of the evaluation process, individual and crisis counseling, completion of social history, and case management. RDC operates a highly structured orientation and behavioral management program emphasizing development in areas of leadership, education, achievement, discipline, empowerment, and responsibility. The program is designed to have juveniles take responsibility for their own actions and allows their behavior to determine quality of life, in terms of

ADMISSIONS BY PSYCHOTROPIC MEDICATION HISTORY AND DIAGNOSED MENTAL HEALTH NEED*, FY 2004

*Includes only moderate and severe mental health needs and is not comparable to data from previous Data Resource Guides.

Over half (56%) of the wards admitted to the JCCs have a history of using psychotropic medications. Likewise, 47% of admissions have a diagnosed mental health need.

BEHAVIORAL SERVICES UNIT (BSU)

The mental health needs of incarcerated adolescents have recently become a topic of national importance. Virginia is very fortunate to have both a well-established organizational system for the delivery of mental health services and adequate resources to meet the mental health needs of the youth committed to DJJ. In DJJ, these services are provided by the Behavioral Services Unit (BSU), which consists of doctoral and masters level psychologists and social workers, certified substance abuse counselors, psychological test technicians, licensed supervisory staff, and clerical support staff.

All data were downloaded on 11/22/2004. Any changes after that date are not reflected in this book. Percentages may not add to 100% due to rounding.

BSU was established in 1950 by the Code of Virginia (COV §66-19). Prior to 1981, it was named the “Mobile Psychiatric Clinic” because it was originally composed of a core of centralized staff who traveled to each of the “training schools” to perform diagnostic assessments and provide therapy services. By the early 1970s, the staff had grown to 20 professionals. In recent years, the number of staff continued to grow in response to the ever-increasing mental health treatment needs of the wards and the assumption of sex offender and substance abuse treatment. Currently, 74 full-time BSU staff are assigned to specific JCCs. Even though these staff are exempt from licensure requirements by law, 50% of BSU clinicians are licensed in their respective professions, and approximately half of the unlicensed staff are working toward licensure.

BSU provides a variety of mental health services within the JCCs, including individual, group and family therapy; crisis intervention; sex offender treatment; substance abuse treatment; diagnostic assessments; and 24 hour a day on-call mental health services for each facility. These services also include staff training and supervision of the anger management counseling program. BSU also oversees the psychiatric services at the JCCs. These services are provided through a contractual arrangement of a minimum of 48 hours per week, distributed among the seven JCCs and RDC. Over 80% of the youth housed within the JCCs receive some type of BSU treatment.

A number of states around the country have come under legal scrutiny for failing to provide adequate mental health services within their juvenile correctional centers. Virginia’s approach to providing mental health services is highly regarded, however, and has served as a model for other state systems.

HEALTH SERVICES

All medical, dental, nursing, and related health services are provided to youth confined within the JCCs. These youth typically have a wide range of medical and dental care needs that result from being medically underserved prior to admission. To meet the needs of confined youth, the Department maintains a staff of board-certified physicians, dentists, and nurses. Services are provided at all JCCs to ensure that the medical and dental care needs of youth are met during confinement. Additionally, the Department has entered into a contract with Anthem to process medical invoices for Detention Centers and JCCs. This contract will ensure all health care services provided to confined youth, exterior to these confinement facilities, are delivered in a cost-effective fashion by qualified practitioners. This contract exemplifies the efforts of Health Services to provide quality care using the most efficient and economical service delivery models available.

SECURITY AND OPERATIONS

The Security and Operations section of the Division of Institutional Programs incorporates functions that support the facilities and allow them to operate properly. Operations include food service, maintenance, and business office responsibilities that involve all personnel, families of the juveniles, volunteers, and the public. Operations staff handle all routine and emergency issues that arise within the JCCs and ensure that all operations are in proper order. Security handles the facilities in a paramilitary style utilizing the military ranking and title system. Security involves both public safety and the safety of the juveniles themselves, and is facilitated by the correctional officers in the field. Correctional officers operate under standard operating procedures that set forth proper techniques for dealing with various situations.

TREATMENT AND PROGRAMS

The Treatment and Programs section works in conjunction with the Security and Operations section in an advisory and monitoring capacity. This section monitors how treatment and programs are operated, assesses progress made in programs, sets parameters for the programs, and deals with broad regulations on classifications as well as the residential location of juveniles from different classifications. They ensure that all needed services are available and operational at the facilities. They also serve as a liaison from the field to the administrative offices, and vice versa, for procedures and resources. Treatment services in the JCCs include mental health, substance abuse, sex offender, anger management, and independent living skills development. Rearrest, reconviction, and reincarceration information for juveniles who received substance abuse or sex offender treatment while in the JCCs are provided in the Reoffense Rates section.

YOUTH INDUSTRIES

Recognizing that many youth released to the community from the JCCs are not prepared to enter the work force, the Youth Industries Program was designed to help participants overcome barriers to employment. The program was designed as a partnership with DCE and the U.S. Department of Labor.

Older wards are selected for Youth Industries based on institutional adjustment, satisfactory progress toward service plan objectives, and demonstrated ability to work independently with limited supervision. Youth selected for the program receive the following: vocational and academic instruction, hands-on work-based training, ongoing counseling services, transitional skills and services, and follow-up. If warranted, participating wards are modestly compensated based on work-training hours completed or receive an established piecework rate.

Fields of study may also be integrated with an apprenticeship program. Such fields of study include horticulture, silk screening, offset printing, food service, woodworking, electrical, barbering, embroidery, vinyl sign-making, advertising and design, and computer repair. Each year, creative arts and crafts works produced by wards throughout DJJ are collected for exhibit and sale at the General Assembly Building when the legislative session begins.

In the program, youth can develop positive work habits and pro-work values while receiving guidance on using newly acquired skills when entering the job market. DJJ has initiated an on-going evaluation of the Youth Industries program beginning with juveniles released from the program in FY 2001. These findings indicate that:

- Juveniles who participated in the program were likely to be older, have more serious committing offenses, and stay longer in the JCCs than juveniles in the general JCC population.
- Juveniles who participated in Youth Industries had lower reoffense rates within 12 months after release than juveniles from the general JCC population. Additional information on rearrest, reconviction, and reincarceration rates for Youth Industries juveniles may be found in the Reoffense Rates section.
- Recent evaluation results noted that program expenditures are well below the budget allocated by DJJ.

ADMISSIONS BY SECURITY INITIAL CLASSIFICATION LEVEL, FY 2004

62% of wards admitted to the JCCs in FY 2004 had a low or medium initial classification level.

DJJ, in collaboration with DCE, received a grant from the U.S. Department of Labor to fund additional work programs for DJJ wards. The Workforce Preparation Project has created and funded organized programs to enhance JCC work programs and expand vocational education. The Project teaches marketable skills and positive workplace behaviors, providing work experience while wards are in the JCCs and assisting wards in their search for gainful employment upon release from DJJ. The first part of this project focuses on wards at Beaumont JCC, who receive academic instruction as well as vocational training in barbering, printing, or electrical work. A transition component is included for project participants who will be returned to localities in the Eastern Region of Virginia upon release from the JCC.

CLASSIFICATION SYSTEM

The Board of Juvenile Justice Policy 19-00 states, “the Department has no higher duty than to provide for the safety of juveniles in its facilities and of the staff who supervise and care for them. Classification is essential to the operation of an orderly and safe juvenile correctional system. Classification enables the Department to gauge the proper custody level of a juvenile, to identify the juvenile’s educational, vocational and psychological needs, and to separate violent and non-violent juveniles.”

In 2001, the Department implemented an objective classification system to enable staff to assess wards’ appropriate security and custody levels, determine the most appropriate services and programs for all wards, assign juveniles to appropriate housing placements within a facility, and assess wards for placement in community transition programs and for special needs. The classification system also provides for periodic reviews of security, custody, and program placement in light of juveniles’ needs and progress and for the re-classification of wards as appropriate.

Wards are classified according to their need for structure:

- Level I - low structure
- Level II - medium structure
- Level III - high structure
- Level IV - intensive structure

Facilities are classified according to the level of security they provide:

- Level I - low security, structure, and supervision
- Level II - medium security, structure, and supervision
- Level III - high security, structure, and supervision
- Level IV - intensive security, structure, and supervision

Wards are assigned to facilities based on these classification levels, age, sex, and certain other factors identified in Appendix D.

ADMISSIONS BY LENGTH OF STAY ASSIGNMENTS, FY 2004

Nearly 11% of wards admitted to the JCCs in FY 2004 had a determinate or blended sentence. Of those with an indeterminate sentence, 19% were assigned a minimum LOS range of 18 or more months.

LENGTH OF STAY (LOS)

Using guidelines issued by the Virginia Board of Juvenile Justice, the Department establishes the length of stay for indeterminately committed juveniles based on the severity of a juvenile's offense(s), chronicity of criminal behavior, and any aggravating or mitigating factors associated with the criminal behavior, with due consideration given to the youth's treatment needs and demonstrated behavior while under the Department's supervision. LOS categories are defined by an anticipated minimum and maximum number of months that the ward will remain with DJJ. For example, the LOS category 3-6 indicates a ward is expected to stay between 3 and 6 months. The actual length of stay may vary from this range due to institutional offenses or failure to complete mandatory treatment. The guidelines and LOS categories can be found in Appendix E.

PROJECTION FOR THE INSTITUTIONAL POPULATION

Each year the Department of Juvenile Justice, in conjunction with the Governor's Inmate Population Forecasting Committee, produces a projection of the state responsible juvenile average daily population. The most recent forecast projects the institutional population to decrease by 3% between FY 2004 and FY 2008. This projected decrease is due primarily to forecasted modest decreases in admissions.

AVERAGE DAILY POPULATION - HISTORICAL AND PROJECTED, FY 2000-2008

The state responsible juvenile offender population (including private provider programs) is expected to decrease by 3% between FY 2004 - 2008. The historical ADP and forecast numbers shown in the table are the June values for each FY.

Virginia Wilderness Institute (VWI)

The Virginia Wilderness Institute (VWI) is a 32-bed facility that serves committed offenders. Remotely located in Grundy, Virginia, VWI is a highly structured, disciplined, residential program for males. The program focuses on accountability and competency. VWI emphasizes work ethics, education, self-discipline, responsibility, and accountability through participation in rigorous work and daily structure. VWI offers a full range of academic and vocational instruction. A community coordinator works with each ward, both before and after release from the facility, to assist in transition to the community. The community coordination includes assistance with job search, school re-enrollment, and locating other support services in the community. Information on rearrest, reconviction, and reincarceration rates for juveniles placed at VWI may be found in the Reoffense Rates section.

PROGRAMS AVAILABLE

Substance Abuse Treatment and Anger Management Programs

The Substance Abuse Program at Barrett provides comprehensive services to a male population that is experiencing significant life problems related to their use of alcohol and other drugs. The Program was funded as a national demonstration project by a grant from the Center for Substance Abuse Treatment, an agency of the United States Department of Health and Human Services. The Program, provided by the Gateway Foundation at Barrett, was selected as the Virginia Association of Drug and Alcohol Program's Program of Excellence award winner for 1999. In July 1999 and again in August 2002, Barrett received a three-year certification from CARE, the Rehabilitation Accreditation Commission, making Barrett the only juvenile correctional facility in the nation to be certified as a treatment program. It is the largest and most comprehensive substance abuse treatment program in the country for juvenile offenders in a correctional setting.

Anger Management and Substance Abuse Treatment

The Natural Bridge facility houses male offenders, ages 15 to 20, who are lower security risks with all types of committing offenses. The Department places a limited number of major and serious offenders at Natural Bridge as a step down or transition placement prior to release. Behavioral, Life Skills, Sex Offender, Anger Management, and Substance Abuse Treatment Programs

The Oak Ridge facility houses male offenders that range in age from 11 to 20 with developmental disabilities and behavior disorders. The population has measured intelligence scores in the borderline to moderately retarded range with Woodcock-Johnson academic achievement scores at or below the fourth grade level. Offenders typically have a history of maladaptive behavior and problems adjusting in school. The facility operates a behavioral "token economy" program and offers mental health services, sex offender, anger management, and substance abuse treatment programs.

Reoffense Rates

Measuring Reoffense Rates

Recidivism, or reoffending, is an important concept for juvenile and adult criminal justice systems because it provides a means to measure outcome success. In terms of public awareness, this concept is usually the primary measure of interest when evaluating criminal or delinquent activity. Use of a standardized measure of recidivism allows evaluation across different types of programs and facilitates comparison to program outcomes from other states.

While there are many studies on offender recidivism, comparison of results is often difficult because the evaluation methodologies used vary widely. Definitions of recidivism differ from study to study. The length of time used to measure recidivism may range from as little as three months to as long as five years. Characteristics of the juveniles studied may not be adequately identified. These issues, as well as others surrounding reoffense analysis, were discussed in a 2002 report prepared by the National Center for State Courts (Ostrom et al., Offender Risk Assessment in Virginia: A Three-Stage Evaluation). The authors suggested measurement criteria that should be addressed by any study of recidivism – including different ways to define reoffending and length of follow-up for offenders after release.

METHODS FOR STUDYING REOFFENDING

One of the methods used to evaluate reoffending is the longitudinal cohort study. A cohort is simply a group of individuals who share some common characteristic, such as release from incarceration during a specific year. This method may use the entire population of interest or a sample from that population. The chosen cohort is then followed over a period of time so that any trends for that group may be identified. For reoffense rates, a cohort is tracked for a specific follow-up period and any reoffenses are counted.

Most recidivism studies use the longitudinal cohort method, including the recent Florida Department of Corrections report on adult recidivism (2003) and Virginia’s annual evaluations of juvenile reoffending (see previous Data Resource Guides). This method provides a better picture of long-term trends and allows public safety agencies to see patterns in offending.

The diagram shows a typical path for a longitudinal cohort analysis. First, the cohort is chosen (for example, all juveniles released from juvenile correctional centers during FY 2003). At the end of a specified follow-up period (for this example, 12 months after release) all instances of reoffending are identified. The cohort is then divided into two groups – those who did or did not reoffend.

DEFINITIONS OF REOFFENDING

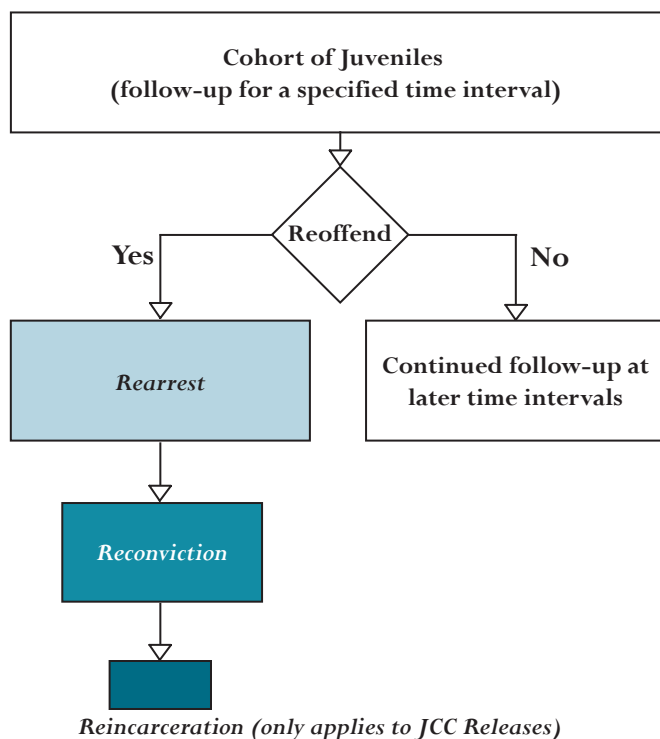

The American Correctional Association (ACA) has stated that the definition of recidivism is one of the primary issues for juvenile and adult correctional organizations. According to the ACA, “. . .there are numerous ways to measure recidivism. . .[d]epending on what perspective is taken, statistical outcomes may vary.”

There are three commonly accepted definitions used to measure reoffending:

- Rearrest refers to a juvenile complaint for a new criminal offense made at intake or an adult arrest for a new criminal offense. Rearrest is an important measure of reoffending because it represents the initial official contact with the criminal justice system. Uses of rearrest rates are limited as a gauge of reoffending because rearrest measures police activity, and juveniles may be rearrested for offenses they did not actually commit.
- Reconviction refers to a guilty adjudication for a delinquent or criminal offense. This measure represents a more stringent way to measure reoffending. Because reconviction rates are based on the final disposition for an offense, only cases with an admission of guilt or a court adjudication of guilty are counted. Only reconviction meets the definition of recidivism used by the Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice.
- Reincarceration refers to a return to incarceration (after having been previously released from incarceration in a juvenile or adult facility) subsequent to rearrest and reconviction on a new criminal offense. This measure indicates that the new offense is serious enough to warrant a return to incarceration.

The report by Ostrom et al. (2002) also emphasized that the way recidivism is defined has an impact on the interpretation of study results. According to their report, there are strengths and weaknesses associated with each measure of recidivism. Use of rearrest as a measure of recidivism has the advantage of not being influenced by court proceedings (offense reduction, plea bargaining, diversion) but may overestimate the level of reoffending because arrest criteria are less stringent than conviction criteria. Rearrest rates represent the maximum rate for reoffending as captured in official records.

Use of reconviction as a measure of recidivism lessens the likelihood of overinflating reoffending rates. It should be noted that time to reconviction is best measured as the “number of days until a new arrest for which the offender will be subsequently convicted,” so that any discrepancies in court procedures will not influence the measurement of time to reoffense. Therefore, reconvictions represent a subset of rearrests.

Reincarceration rates offer the most stringent measure of reoffending. Juveniles recommitted to a juvenile correctional center or sentenced to an adult facility have been considered by a judge to have committed offenses serious enough to justify return to a correctional facility. The measure represents a further subset of rearrests – reoffending that has been adjudicated guilty and resulted in re-entry into a juvenile correctional facility or sentence for incarceration into an adult facility.

ISSUES WITH THE STUDY OF REOFFENDING

Ostrom et al. (2002) note that studies of reoffending (recidivism) differ in terms of the length of time used for follow-up. Length of follow-up in these studies has ranged anywhere from three months to five years. Most studies use a one year follow-up period to assess reoffending. While reoffending rates are often highest within the first year after release or judicial action, the limitation of follow-up to one year does not allow for a comprehensive analysis of reoffending patterns. Studies of reoffending should use longer follow-up periods in order to get a better idea of the recidivism process. Ostrom et al. (2002) recommend the use of a follow-up period of at least one to three years.

There are other issues relevant to the examination of reoffending, particularly for juveniles. First, most studies have focused on offenders who have been released from correctional centers. Focusing on this group limits the understanding of reoffending rates because it does not allow for examination of all individuals who have contact with the justice system and eliminates the possibility of comparison between individuals who have been incarcerated in secure facilities versus individuals who may have been sent to diversion programs or placed on probation.

Also, few studies have tracked offenses through both the juvenile and adult justice systems. A complete examination of juvenile reoffending is not possible unless all juvenile and adult contacts with the justice system are included.

Additionally, studies of reoffending should include information on gender and age differences when presenting reoffense data, particularly evaluations of juvenile reoffending. There are well documented normal developmental differences between males and females, as well as juveniles in early adolescence versus late adolescence. Therefore, reoffending patterns should not be assumed to be the same for all juveniles. For example, a 2002 study by DJJ found that female offenders admitted to JCCs were more likely than male offenders to have been admitted for a non-felony. A recent study by Oregon (2004) on juvenile recidivism found that juveniles ages 13-16 were most likely to reoffend within the Oregon juvenile justice system.

DJJ'S STUDY OF JUVENILE REOFFENDING

Data on juvenile offenders in Virginia are contained in a data tracking system, the DJJ Juvenile Tracking System (JTS), that includes information on juvenile intakes, commitments to juvenile correctional centers, and probation placements for all localities within Virginia. This information allows us to examine juvenile reoffending patterns in a standardized way. Also, DJJ obtains statewide adult arrest and conviction information from the Virginia State Police. Information from these two sources enables the study of statewide juvenile reoffending patterns with long-term follow-up periods.

For this Data Resource Guide, juvenile reoffending patterns for FY 1998 through FY 2003 were examined. Juvenile and adult arrest data on juveniles released from Virginia juvenile correctional centers or placed on probation during these years were examined. The follow-up period ranged from a minimum of one year to a maximum of three years, depending on the date the juvenile was released or placed. Demographic information for reoffenses was also included.

Although all three measures of reoffending were included in this Data Resource Guide, it is important to note that the official DJJ recidivism definition is based on measures of reconviction. In February 2000, the Director of the Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice issued an administrative directive (07-710) that established an official definition for recidivism to be used by the Department.

For the purposes of reporting recidivism rates of juveniles as required by Code of Virginia §2.1-51.17.C, the Department will use the following definitions:

A recidivist is a person who is found by a court to have committed, after being (a) placed on probation or (b) released from confinement, a delinquent or criminal act other than violation of probation or parole.

As the recidivism definition currently stands, all instances of delinquent and adult criminal activity (for which a juvenile has been adjudicated guilty) that occur after a juvenile is released from a JCC or is placed on probation are collected by DJJ. Technical violations are not included in this definition of reoffending. Tracking information on all subsequent offenses provides a better measure of reoffending than simply gathering information from the juvenile justice system alone.

Reoffense Rates for JCC Releases and Probation Placements

Reoffense data were examined for FY 1998 through FY 2003:

- JCC Releases – cohorts of all juveniles released from juvenile correctional centers; and
- Probation Placements – cohorts of juveniles placed on probation for the first time (the entire population was used for FY 2002 and FY 2003; randomly selected, representative samples for each year were used for FY 1998-2001).

Tables on the next few pages include the following data:

- Rearrest rates are presented for each year, for both JCC Releases and Probation Placement cohorts;
- Reconviction rates are presented for each year for the JCC Release cohorts, and from FY 2001-2003 for the Probation Placement cohorts; and
- Reincarceration rates for each year are presented only for the JCC Release cohorts. These rates represent reincarceration back into a JCC or into an adult jail or the Virginia Department of Corrections (DOC).

Reoffense data did not include the following offenses: violation of probation or parole, contempt of court, failure to appear, non-criminal domestic relations/child welfare complaints, or traffic violations (other than offenses at the felony or misdemeanor level). Only offenses for new delinquent or criminal acts were included.

When the length of time to rearrest or reconviction is reported, it indicates the time between the date the juvenile was released from a JCC or placed on probation, and the date of a new arrest. For reincarceration length of time, the difference between the release date from a JCC and the reincarceration date was used.

The methodology for data collection and analysis was again refined this year, so that the reoffense data reported in the FY 2004 Data Resource Guide is as accurate, complete, and understandable as possible. The following revisions and additions were made for this year's reoffense analysis:

- Reoffense rates were determined using petitioned juvenile intake complaints for the analysis. Only petitioned juvenile intake complaints are comparable to adult arrests. In previous years, all juvenile intake complaints were counted in the reoffense analysis, including offenses that were resolved or diverted at intake.
- Incarceration data were obtained from DOC and from the Virginia Sentencing Commission (for sentences to local jails). Inclusion of this information allows for a more complete view of reoffense patterns. In previous years, only commitments to JCCs were available for analysis. Because of the addition of adult incarceration data, commitment data are now referred to as reincarcerations in this Data Resource Guide.

There is a slight discrepancy between the total number JCC Releases/Probation Placements in the reoffense analysis when compared with the total number of juveniles released from the JCCs or placed on probation reported in other sections of this Data Resource Guide. This slight discrepancy is due to the following methodological criteria for the reoffense cohorts:

- Probation Placement cohorts did not include those few juveniles with missing date of birth data. This information is required to match cases in different state data systems (such as the DJJ JTS and the Virginia Criminal Information Network used by the Virginia State Police).
- Juveniles released from the JCCs under the following conditions were not included in the reoffense analysis: juveniles placed into RDC pre-dispositionally (these few juveniles were not committed to the JCCs), juveniles sent directly to DOC upon release from the JCCs, or juveniles released from the JCCs on appeal (these juveniles were included in the analysis for any subsequent admissions and releases, however, once the appeal process was completed).

- Recidivism rates for FY 2003 (defined as reconviction rates by DJJ) at 12-months were:
 - 37.6% for juveniles released from the JCCs;
 - 24.8% for juveniles placed on probation.
- When compared on 12-month rearrest and reconviction rates for FY 1998 through FY 2003, JCC Releases had higher rates than Probation Placements.
- The following reoffending patterns were noted at 12-months:
 - For JCC Releases, there was a decrease in both rearrest and reconviction rates between FY2002 and FY 2003. Reincarceration rates have declined steadily since FY 2001.
 - For Probation Placements, rearrest rates continued to decrease between FY 1998 and FY 2003. Reconviction rates for FY 2001 and FY 2002 remained fairly constant, then dropped in FY 2003.

As mentioned earlier, rearrest rates do not meet DJJ's official definition for recidivism. Examining rearrest rates is helpful, however, because these rates reflect the level of additional contact juveniles have with the justice system after release or placement. Also, this allows for comparison to other studies using rearrest as their measure of recidivism. Evaluation of rearrest rates provides a sense of the maximum rate of reoffending that occurs over time.

- Between FY 2002 and FY 2003, the 12-month rearrest rates for both JCC Releases and Probation Placements decreased. The rate for JCC Releases decreased from 52.2% to 49.4%; the rate for Probation Placements dropped from 35.8% to 34.8%.
- The 12-month rearrest rates for Probation Placements have been consistently lower than the 12-month rearrest rates for JCC Releases since FY 1998.
- Rearrest rates by time to reoffense are listed in the table above.
 - For JCC Releases, there was a decline at 3-, 6-, 24-, and 36-months between FY 1998 and FY 1999. Rearrest rates generally rose for these follow-up periods until FY 2003, when there was a decline at 3-, 6-, and 12-months.
 - For Probation Placements, rearrest rates at 3- and 6-months dropped between FY 1999 and FY 2000, then fluctuated slightly until another noticeable decline in FY 2003. For the 12-, 24-, and 36-month intervals, rearrest rates primarily declined between FY 1998 and FY 2003 (although there was only a slight change in the 24-month rearrest rate between FY 2001 and FY 2002).

The official DJJ definition of recidivism requires a new conviction. This rate is preferred because it considers the final adjudication of guilt. Only offenses for which there has been a clear final disposition of guilt are counted as reconvictions. Cases with offenses still pending or on appeal at the time the Data Resource Guide was published will be re-examined next year. Unfortunately, the large size of the probation placement samples made it impractical to retrieve reconviction data for years prior to FY 2001.

- Between FY 2002 and FY 2003, the 12-month reconviction rates for both JCC Releases and Probation Placements declined. The reconviction rate for JCC Releases decreased from 42.7% to 37.6%; the rate for Probation Placements dropped from 26.1% to 24.8%. FY 2003 reconviction rates will most likely increase slightly when re-analyzed next year because of updated final disposition data for cases that were still pending in court or on appeal at the time this Data Resource Guide was published.
- The 12-month reconviction rates for Probation Placements have been consistently lower than the 12-month reconviction rates for JCC Releases since FY 2001.
- Recconviction rates by time to reoffense are listed in the table above.
 - For JCC Releases, the 3- and 12-month reconviction rates increased between FY 1998 and FY 2002, then declined in FY 2003.
 - For Probation Placements, the 3-, 6-, and 12-month reconviction rates increased between FY 2001 and FY 2002, then declined for FY 2003.

REINCARCERATION RATES, FY 1998-2003

DJJ now tracks both juvenile and adult reincarceration. Reincarceration rates are based on any new commitment (after release from a JCC) to a JCC, the Virginia DOC, or a sentence for time in a local jail. The addition of adult reincarceration data allows for a complete comparison of reoffense rates for all former DJJ wards, from rearrest to possible reincarceration. The inclusion of adult incarceration information, for both the prisons and jails, is especially useful because DJJ does retain custody of some wards until age 21.

Several other states, including Florida and Maryland, use both juvenile and adult incarcerations when analyzing reincarceration rates for former juvenile wards.

- The 12-month reincarceration rate basically increased between FY 1998 and FY 2001. The reincarceration rate declined in FY 2002 and again in FY 2003. Between FY 2002 and FY 2003, the reincarceration rate dropped from 18.4% to 17.2%.
- Reincarceration rates for the 3- and 6-month follow-up intervals have consistently been fairly low. By the 12-month interval, the reincarceration rates have increased noticeably. This increase continues at the 24- and 36-month intervals.

Demographic data for 12-month reincarceration rates for JCC Releases are presented in the table below.

- Males had higher reincarceration rates than females.
- Black juveniles had the highest reincarceration rates, followed by white juveniles.
- Reincarceration rates were highest for juveniles who were age 14 at the time of their release from the JCCs.

Reoffense Rates for Specific Agency Programs, FY 2003

Post-Dispositional Detention (with programs)	250	40.0%	32.4%	7.2%

This year, DJJ also examined the reoffense rates for various subgroups of JCC Releases, including juveniles with substance abuse or sex offender treatment needs and youth who participated in special programs such as Youth Industries programs or JROTC at Hanover JCC. In addition, the reoffense rates for committed juveniles placed at the Virginia Wilderness Institute or convicted youth sentenced by local judges to post-dispositional detention (with programs) were studied. Examination of the reoffense rates for these programs and incarceration alternatives provides a broader picture of the criminal activity of juveniles incarcerated in a facility (whether JCC or alternative).

FY 2003 reoffense rates for JCC programs and commitment alternatives are provided in the table above. This table is not intended to provoke a comparison between these programs – these programs often serve vastly different groups of juveniles with varying offense histories, treatment needs, and skills. Also, some programs serve a small number of youth each year – the reoffenses of a few juveniles may result in a “high” overall reoffense rate. The information in this table may be useful as DJJ tracks these results over time, and as a source of comparison for similar programs in other states. The total reoffense rates for JCC Releases are provided so that the reader may see how individual program/alternative placement rates contrast with the total reoffense rates.

VJCCCA programs serve thousands of juveniles each year, with a variety of programs in each locality. One of the outcome measures chosen for evaluation of VJCCCA programs is rearrest (defined as a new petitioned intake or adult arrest). The rearrest rates, at 3-, 6- and 12-months follow-up intervals, for juveniles who were placed in VJCCCA programs are provided in the table above. For comparative purposes, the rearrest rates for Probation Placements and JCC Releases for these years are also listed.

The rearrest rates for VJCCCA juveniles have increased steadily at each follow-up interval since FY 2001, including a slight increase between FY2002 and FY 2003. The rearrest rates for Probation Placements and JCC Releases declined between FY 2002 and FY 2003. The 12-month rearrest rates for VJCCCA juveniles were lower than the rearrest rates for JCC Releases each year. When compared to the rearrest rates for Probation Placements, however, the VJCCCA juveniles had a lower rate in FY 2001 but a higher rate in both FY 2002 and FY 2003.

All Felonies	2 points
Class 1 Misdemeanors	1 point

Note: All felonies and all Class 1 misdemeanors are counted EXCEPT the offenses that were used to determine the severity level.

INITIAL LOS STEPS AND ADJUSTMENTS TO DETERMINE FINAL LOS RANGE

Numbers refer to Current and Prior Offense Severity, respectively, according to the Severity Level table above. For example, a juvenile has an initial LOS Step of 1-3. Therefore, the LOS level for the most serious Current Offense is 1, and the LOS level for the most serious Prior Offense is 3. This juvenile will have an LOS range of 6-12 months barring any adjustments for chronic offense behavior and aggravating or mitigating circumstances.

Current and Prior Most Serious Offense Severity Level	Chronicity Score (points)	Final LOS Early - Late

RISK ASSESSMENT INSTRUCTIONS

RISK INSTRUMENT DEFINITIONS

1. Age at First Referral to CSU - Determine the youth's age at the time he/she was first referred to the CSU for a delinquent or status offense. Do not include referrals for dependency or custody. The outcome (e.g., diverted, petitioned) of the first referral does not matter.
2. Number of Adjudicated Offenses Disposed of at Current Disposition - This is a count of the number of ADJUDICATED OFFENSES that were/are to be disposed of at the current dispositional hearing. Do not include any offenses/charges that were not adjudicated. In counting adjudicated offenses, count only those that represented separate incidents. If a youth was adjudicated for two burglaries that occurred on two different nights that is two adjudications. However, if a youth was involved in a robbery and got charged/adjudicated for multiple counts of lesser included offenses (e.g., robbery, assault, theft) that should be counted as one offense, not three.
3. Total Petitions for Violent Offenses - This is a count of all PETITIONS for violent offenses in the youth's record. Be sure to count any and all petitions for violent offenses that occurred up to the date of the current disposition (even if they have not yet been adjudicated or disposed of). The petitions must reflect separate incidents, not multiple charges arising from the same incident. Violent offenses include all offenses against persons that are assaultive in nature including felony and misdemeanor assaults, kidnapping, murder, armed robbery, and robbery, carjacking, sexual assaults, etc.
4. Total Petitions for Drug or Conspiracy Offenses - This is a count of all PETITIONS in the youth's record for drug charges (sales, possession with intent to sell, use, possession) or for conspiracy charges. Count only those petitions arising from separate incidents, not multiple charges arising from the same incident. If a youth gets arrested for drug sales and gets three separate petitions alleging sales and possession, that is one incident (not two) and should be counted as one petition. Be sure to count any and all drug or conspiracy petitions that occurred up to the date of the current disposition.
5. Types of Petitions for Property Offenses - This is a count of the number of different TYPES of property offense petitions. It is not a count of the total number of petitions for property offenses. There are a total of five different types of property offenses that are considered: burglary; larceny; fraud; arson; and trespass/vandalism. Check the youth's entire record to determine how many of these different types the youth has been petitioned for. As above, only count petitions arising from separate incidents. If a youth committed one burglary during which he stole something, and was petitioned for burglary and theft, that's one petition. In such cases, count the most serious type. Be sure to count any and all property offense petitions that occurred up to the current disposition.
6. Substance Abuse - Indicate the degree to which drug/alcohol involvement has affected youth's normal functioning in the two years prior to the current disposition. Consider both frequency (e.g., "occasional", "frequent") and effect of use ("some" or "serious disruption/interference").
 - No Problem/experimentation: no use or occasional use that does not result in disruption of functioning. Uses less than once per month; OR more frequent use but relationships with parents not strained over use or involvement with using peers; AND no school problems associated with use; AND no arrests for D/A related offenses (within past two years).
 - Problematic: use of substances is associated with some or major disruption of functioning. Family relationships may have become strained over use; OR strong ties to D/A involved peers; OR deterioration in school performance believed to be drug/alcohol related; OR one or more school disciplinary actions related to substance abuse; OR one or more substance abuse-related arrests (past two years); OR any referral in past two years for out-patient or in-patient treatment for D/A abuse; OR admitted or diagnosed dependency.
7. School Status- Indicate whether the youth is enrolled and attending school, or has been expelled or has dropped out. If the youth has truancy problems, but is still going to school, he/she should be given a score of "0". However, if the youth has been truant for more than half the days in the last 9 months of school, consider them to have "dropped out" (and score "2").
8. Peer relationships - Use the definitions below to guide the scoring of this item.
 - No negative associations or youth is a loner: friends not known to be delinquent or to have influenced youth's involvement in delinquent behavior- no more than one referral involving co-defendants; OR youth has no/few friends; engages in solitary pursuits and/or spends most time with much younger children.
 - Some delinquent peers: some companions involved in delinquent behavior. Has had co-defendants in 2-3 arrests and/or some friends have been referred to juvenile court.
 - Mostly delinquent peers: primary peer group has a strong delinquent orientation and/or most friends have been referred to juvenile court, and/or four or more arrests involving codefendants; and or youth is a gang or posse member or affiliate.
9. History of Runaways/Escapes - Indicate whether the youth has a history of multiple runaways from home (defined as being gone for 24 hours or more) OR had ever runaway or escaped from a placement facility (secure or non-secure). The time frame for this question is "ever".
10. Referred to DSS - Indicate whether the youth was ever referred to DSS as a victim of child abuse of neglect. It does not matter if the allegation was founded/substantiated or not.
11. Family Functioning Characteristics- Use the definitions below to determine the extent of family disorganization.
 - No Problem: family functioning was basically stable and supportive. Physical and emotional needs of youth were being met. Parental discipline and control were generally effective.
 - Some Disorganization: family problems interfered with youth functioning (or youth problems interfered with family functioning). Parent-parent or parent-child conflict occurred frequently and at times was disruptive, OR parental discipline and control were often ineffective or inconsistent. OR there was residential instability or financial problems, or there had been; recent disruptive event such as divorce, remarriage or a death in the family.
 - Major Disorganization: problems severely inhibited the youth's ability to function. Youth's physical or emotional needs were not being met. OR parent rejecting of, or refused responsibility for youth, OR chronic, serious parental problems (financial, mental health, illness, criminality), OR parent-parent or parent-child conflict occurred consistently and created turmoil, OR repeated instances of family violence, OR parental discipline and control were almost non-existent, OR parents contributed to youth's delinquency.
12. Family Criminality - Indicate whether a parent figure or sibling (or both) was on probation/parole or incarcerated during the three years prior to the current disposition. Incarcerated means sentenced to incarceration (do not include pre-trial jail or detention.) If a parent OR a sibling had been on probation or incarcerated, score "1". If BOTH had been, score "2". Parent figure includes natural parents, step-parents and live-in boyfriends/girlfriends. Do not include aunts, uncles, or other relatives unless they are caretakers/parent figures.
