December 1, 2004

The Honorable Mark R. Warner, Governor
Members of the Virginia General Assembly

It is my distinct honor to present to you the Seventh Annual Summary of Clean Water Farm Award Program Recipients. The Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) is delighted to be the lead agency for this exciting program that provides an excellent avenue for recognition of farms which utilize practices designed to protect water quality and soil resources.

While DCR has issued awards of this nature since 1986, legislation passed by the General Assembly in 1998 allowed a new program emphasis and enabled us to better promote the program across the Commonwealth. However, while this program is authorized by Virginia law, funding appropriated annually by the Commonwealth to support its implementation has been eliminated. For the 2003 and 2004 program years DCR streamlined essential program costs and has covered those expenses from other financial resources.

Working closely with 47 Soil and Water Conservation Districts, DCR has assisted farmers for the past fifteen years with education, technical assistance and incentive programs for nutrient reduction and water quality improvement. The Clean Water Farm Awards and the Bay Friendly Farm Awards allow us to further the Commonwealth's water quality goals by recognizing farmers actively engaged in nutrient management practices and other important practices that control agricultural nonpoint source pollution.

This report details the management of the Clean Water Farm Awards program and provides a listing of the 2004 recipients. Ten special river basin winners will be announced in December 2004, and these farmers are to be recognized at area Soil and Water District events throughout the Spring 2005.

Thank you for the opportunity to bring these deserving farmers to your attention.

Sincerely,

Joseph H. Maroon
Director

STATUTORY AUTHORITY

House Bill 807 of the 1998 General Assembly Session amended the Code of Virginia § 10.1-104.3, and directed the Department of Conservation and Recreation to implement the Clean Water Farm Awards and Bay-Friendly Farm Awards and to provide a report of that program to the General Assembly by December 1 of each calendar year, as follows:

“The Director shall establish the Clean Water Farm Awards Program to recognize farms in the Commonwealth which utilize practices designed to protect water quality and soil resources. A farm shall be eligible for recognition upon application from the farmer or the local soil and water conservation district, if the district concurs that the farmer is fully implementing a nutrient management plan. The Director may establish guidelines for limiting the quantity of annual recipients, receiving and ranking applications, ensuring geographical representation of awards from the major watersheds of the Commonwealth including the Chesapeake Bay watershed, providing local farm recognition through the local soil and water conservation districts, and providing special statewide recognition to select farms, to be known as the Bay-Friendly Farm Awards, within the Chesapeake Bay watershed, and as the Clean Water Farm Awards in all other areas of the Commonwealth. The Department shall report to the General Assembly annually by December 1, the names, addresses and location of signs posted at recipient farms. Recognition under this program shall not be a requirement under any other state program.”

PROGRAM HISTORY

In 1986, Virginia's Secretary of Natural Resources established the Clean Water Farm Awards Program. The program was established to provide special recognition to farmers who demonstrated a commitment to natural resource conservation by the way they implemented best management practices and managed their lands. The Virginia Department of Conservation and Historic Resources (now the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation) was given lead responsibility for program development and administration.

The Department relied upon Soil and Water Conservation Districts (Districts) to select worthy recipients within their communities. No limit was placed on the number of farms that could be recognized during a calendar year. Award recipients within the Chesapeake Bay watershed received an aluminum sign with the designation: Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award. Recipients in areas outside the Chesapeake Bay received signs with the designation: Virginia Clean Water Farm Award. All recipients received a program certificate.

From the annual pool of award winners, Districts were encouraged to nominate an outstanding recipient for a special area award. These special awards were termed Governor's Model Clean Water Farm Awards. Six awards were presented annually with selection of recipients resolved within the six areas of the Virginia Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts (VASWCD). Award winners received a sign and an engraved plaque. A special recognition event was scheduled during late fall, each year. In the early years of the program, recipients were recognized through a special presentation by the Governor. In the years that followed recipients received their awards at the annual meeting of the VASWCD. Beginning in 1993, the Department hosted a special recognition event at the State Capitol with presentation of the awards by the Virginia Secretary of Natural Resources.

From 1986 to June 1998, more than 600 farms across Virginia received recognition through the Clean Water Farm Award program. Districts were encouraged to maintain records of award recipients on file at their offices. During that same period, 66 farms were recognized as Governor's Model Clean Water Farm Award recipients. (A complete list of these recipients is included in the Appendix as item A.)

CURRENT PROGRAM APPROACH

Legislation passed by the 1998 Virginia General Assembly session codified the Clean Water Farm Award Program. The legislation enabled continuation of many effective elements of the awards program, such as reliance on Soil and Water Conservation Districts for selection of award recipients. The legislation also provided a new emphasis on implementation of nutrient management plans as a requirement for eligibility to receive an award. Further guidance within the legislation placed emphasis on recognizing outstanding “select” farms to receive special statewide recognition. Funding appropriated by the General Assembly covers essential support and recognition expenses.

To review effective elements of the past program and recommend a plan for implementation of the newly established awards program, the Director of the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation convened an Advisory Committee. Represented on the Committee were: the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation, the Virginia House of Delegates, the Chesapeake Bay Local Assistance Department, Soil and Water Conservation Districts (Districts), the Virginia Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, the Virginia Cooperative Extension and Virginia Farm Bureau Federation. This advisory group meets annually or as needed to provide the department with comments and suggestions regarding the scope and implementation of the program.

The Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation continues to rely on Soil and Water Conservation Districts and associated groups and agencies to identify worthy recipients of the Clean Water Farm Award and the Bay-Friendly Farm Award in the Chesapeake Bay watershed. Individual winners are selected by Districts. Selection criteria are provided through the application which is contained within the program brochure. Program guidance allows Districts to select one recipient per jurisdiction (county and/or city that comprise the District) per year to receive the award. Virginia’s 47 Districts are comprised of 110 counties and cities. Therefore, the program allows selection of up to 110 award winners each calendar year. Award winners receive a sign and a certificate, which in most cases are presented at an annual awards event of the respective Soil and Water Conservation District.

From the pool of award recipients, ten special river basin grand winners are selected based on nominations from the individual Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Basin grand winners must meet the criteria of the Clean Water Farm Award and must demonstrate exceptional conservation efforts with results in nutrient management, and soil and water conservation. In addition to the standard sign and certificate, the ten river basin winners receive a special recognition sign and a plaque. These awards are presented for the following river basins: Coastal, Rappahannock River, James River, Roanoke River, Shenandoah River, Potomac River, York River, Chowan River, New/Yadkin Rivers and the Tennessee/Big Sandy Rivers.

FUTURE OF THE PROGRAM

To the extent the Department is capable of continuing program leadership and delivery without dedicated program funding, DCR will continue to rely on an advisory group for program review. Representatives from agencies and organizations that are critical to program success are valued in their ability to guide and fine tune changes that improve and enhance effectiveness of the awards program. Meetings of the advisory group are anticipated for coming years. Segments of group discussion will focus on exploring and brainstorming new program directions and approaches. Changes supported by the group and approved by the Department Director will be incorporated in program guidelines.

In addition, the Department will place increased emphasis on promoting the program and the role of Districts among important clients and stakeholders; both of the Department and the Districts. The program provides an excellent vehicle for promoting the local role Districts fulfill within natural resource conservation with members of the agricultural community. Future effective use of the media will continue to promote the outstanding accomplishments of selected farmers.

The Department will also work with local governments to ensure they are aware of the important contributions farmers in their communities are making to conserve natural resources and enhance water quality.

2003 RIVER BASIN GRAND AWARD WINNERS

River Basin Grand Winners, representing nine out of ten river basins, were selected and announced at the December 2003 meeting of the Virginia Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. These awards were presented at Soil and Water Conservation District area meetings during the Spring of 2004. Winners were recognized with a Joint House Resolution and a letter from Governor Mark Warner. Those 9 River Basin Grand Winners were:

Chowan River Basin

The Chowan River basin winner comes from the Peanut Soil and Water Conservation District. Joe Griffin's 900-acre farm is actually in the city of Suffolk, where he has crops, forest and 1,200 hogs.

LIST OF 2004 AWARD WINNERS

Program guidelines provide that Districts may recognize one farm per jurisdiction (county and/or city) that comprise the District per year. There are 110 jurisdictions that comprise Virginia's 47 Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Implementation of 1998 legislation that formally established the Clean Water Farm Awards and Bay-Friendly Farm Awards began July 1, 1998. Fifty-one farms were recognized in 2000. Fifty-two farms were recognized in 2001, forty-two in 2002 and 35 in 2003. In 2004, the following 39 farms were recognized:
