To the Chairs of the Senate and House Courts of Justice Committees, Virginia Crime Commission, and to Members of the General Assembly:

It gives me great pleasure to present you the Annual Report on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Programs for 2004. Pursuant to Va. Code § 2.2-515.1, the statewide facilitator for victims of domestic violence programs has the responsibility to assist agencies in implementing domestic violence programs and must report on the status of such programs each year.

As before, the Annual Report provides an overview of grant programs and services that are available for domestic violence and sexual assault victims and a description of major funding sources. The Report also details several other initiatives throughout the Commonwealth, including prevention and educational programs and other statewide efforts to combat domestic violence and sexual assault.

I am grateful for the accomplishments we have made since I took Office in 2002. It is my sincere hope that in the years ahead Virginia will continue in its strong commitment to ending violence against women.

Sincerely,

Jerry W. Kilgore

Of Note

Virginia's domestic violence programs provided a total of 150,447 nights of shelter to adults and children who were victims of family violence, sexual assault, or stalking.

60% of clients of a program in Northern Virginia are originally from other countries.

After entering a domestic violence shelter in 2003, a former victim of child sexual abuse and domestic violence received a donated car and currently is working two part time jobs while she attends community college, where she expects to graduate in May 2005.

Using SHARE Expansion funds, the Buchanan County Domestic Violence Expansion Project will replace an older existing shelter and double the number of available beds.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S MESSAGE

JERRY KILGORE ATTORNEY GENERAL

"With the help of many state and local officials, advocates, and citizens, we have worked hard to combine increased funding, stricter penalties, and increased awareness as we fight violence against women in the Commonwealth. We have done this because I believe that domestic violence is one of the most destructive, yet preventable crimes our society faces. We have done this because it is time to act against domestic violence in our state. We must do all we can to protect those who face violence in their homes, at the hands of their own loved ones. Domestic violence is not an issue that we can just discuss and feel better for having done so. It is an issue that is occurring throughout Virginia. It is an issue that can be found in any neighborhood at any time. It is an issue that demands we take action to ensure that no one ever suffers from domestic violence in our society ever again."

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

2003-2004 ANNUAL REPORT

The year 2004 brought with it new challenges and new gains in our work to end violence against women. The Commonwealth experienced a reduction in federal Victim of Crime Act (VOCA) and Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) funding for domestic violence programs. In addition, several of Virginia's communities and well-established programs federal discretionary grants were not renewed in 2004. Increased competition for limited dollars meant that even successful programs, such as the Southwest Virginia Legal Aid, Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance, and the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner, had to discontinue or substantially limit programs, services, or other important work. The decreases in funding came as our domestic violence programs and sexual assault crisis centers saw yet another increase in the number of victims and their children served. Private support and creative partnerships are increasingly more important.

The Commonwealth saw a drop in several statistics that reflect progress in our battle against domestic violence and sexual assault. For example, the Department of State Police reported a decrease in the number of aggravated assaults involving spouses and dating partners from 2002 to 2003 and a decrease in all violent crimes against family and intimate partners. Additionally, the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner reported a decrease in family and intimate partner homicides in 2003.

Virginia's increasingly diverse population made it difficult for many communities to adequately respond to domestic violence and sexual assault among immigrants. Resources and programs have been developed and are in development to promote public awareness and to enhance and improve services for immigrant victims of domestic violence and sexual assault.

The year will be remembered for exciting new initiatives and developments. Virginia's domestic violence and sexual assault coalitions merged to form the Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance, marking another milestone in their years of advocating against domestic violence and sexual assault. Additionally, the General Assembly adopted the Attorney General's recommendation to create the Virginia Domestic Violence Victim Fund during the 2004 legislative session. The Fund will be a stable funding stream to serve victims of domestic violence and sexual assault and their children. It also will provide additional funds to hire attorneys to prosecute these crimes.

There are 37 sexual assault crisis centers in Virginia. Sexual assault crisis centers provide 24 hour crisis intervention hotlines, advocacy and accompaniment for victims, support groups, information and referrals, and education and training programs for professionals, students, and members of the general public.

In 2004, Virginians Aligned Against Sexual Assault, the statewide sexual assault coalition (now VSDVAA), focused its public policy advocacy on three issues: ensuring level state funding for sexual assault programs, removing marital exemptions from all felony sexual offenses, and a legislative resolution to study Virginia's response to sexual assault.

Fatality review is an interdisciplinary evaluation of events leading up to a fatality. The purpose of family and dating partner fatality review is to identify prevention strategies to reduce the incidence of deaths associated with family and dating partner violence. In Virginia, fatality review teams are formed at the local and regional levels.

Community Corrections Programs provide pre-trial and post-trial services to offenders as an alternative to incarceration.

In FY 2003, 2,718 offenders were ordered to attend domestic violence counseling, which is nearly 38% lower than FY 2002.

3,044 offenders were ordered into anger management counseling. This represents a decrease of 9.3% from FY 2002.

Other offenders were ordered into sex offender treatment (133), or a host of other services, including mental health evaluations, mental health counseling, and family counseling (2,848).

TRAINING & EDUCATION

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE TRAINING

PROTECTIVE ORDER INSTITUTE

In September 2004, the statewide domestic violence coalition held a one-day training session on such topics as protective order issuance and enforcement, full faith and credit, and entry into the Virginia Criminal Information Network.

CHILDREN AND DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

Several events were held that addressed children and domestic violence. These events included: Culturally Sensitive Interventions for Children Exposed to Family Violence, Out of the Shadows: Families Experiencing Domestic Violence. The latter training was designed to improve the individual and community response to children who have been exposed to domestic violence. Lastly, VADV sponsored Effective Interventions in Domestic Violence and Child Maltreatment Cases ("The Greenbook Training"). This was a cross-training event to assist communities in developing and evaluating responses to families experiencing domestic violence and child maltreatment.

CUT OUT DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

The Office of the Attorney General supported several Cut Out Domestic Violence seminars in 2004. Introduced in 2003, Cut Out Domestic Violence (CODV) is designed to raise awareness about domestic violence and to provide salon professionals with information on how to help clients who are victims of abuse. Since its inception in 2003, the CODV program has trained over 3,000 salon professionals and cosmetology students and has been implemented by Attorneys General in Florida and Idaho.

COURSES & RESOURCES FOR JUDGES & MAGISTRATES

The Office of the Executive Secretary, Supreme Court of Virginia (OES), developed an interactive CD-ROM training course for magistrates. The course is comprised of nine modules: Interview Techniques, Dynamics of Family Violence, Probable Cause Determinations, Findings for Issuance of Emergency Protective Orders, Calculation of the Expiration of an Emergency Protective Order, Violations of Protective Orders, Setting Bail, Next Steps, and Community Resources. A Resource Manual also was developed. The course will be offered on the internet in 2005. OES also provided training during the Pre-Bench orientation for all newly-appointed Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court judges. OES also provides a copy of the Virginia Family Violence Reference Manual to each new J&DR judge.

SEXUAL ASSAULT TRAINING

TRIAL BY JURY

Virginians Aligned Against Sexual Assault (VAASA) sponsored a two day conference featuring training on investigating rape cases. The Virginia Department of Criminal Justice Services provided forty scholarships to law enforcement officers to attend the conference.

BASIC SEXUAL ASSAULT TRAINING

Basic Sexual Assault Training is a multi-day event designed to give individuals the knowledge and skills they need to be effective advocates and community educators. Additional events included Sexual Assault Training for Trainers and workshops on child sexual assault, campus sexual assault, and sexual assault survivors during the annual statewide coalition retreat.

COURSES FOR HEALTH CARE PROFESSIONALS

The Virginia Department of Health, Center for Injury and Violence Prevention (CIVP) offers training for health-care providers related to domestic and sexual violence prevention. The training provides materials and information to assist with the screening, assessment, and referral of clients/patients to appropriate domestic or sexual violence resources.

MALE OUTREACH TRAINING

The Virginia Department of Health held the 3rd Annual Working With Men and Boys To End Sexual Violence Regional Trainings. The trainings are designed to address how to talk to men and boys about sexual violence prevention and are targeted for individuals who work with groups such as church fellowships, fatherhood groups, athletics and fraternities.

VIRGINIA CAMPUS COALITION AGAINST SEXUAL ASSAULT

The Virginia Department of Health, Center for Injury and Violence Prevention (CIVP) worked with the Virginia Campus Coalition Against Sexual Assault to promote and fund an annual conference, Communicate and Collaborate: Campuses and Communities--a training conference for campus and community service providers.

PUBLIC AWARENESS & PREVENTION

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS

SILENT WITNESS VIRGINIA: A VISUAL MEMORIAL

The Silent Witness continued to travel throughout Virginia to raise awareness of domestic violence-related homicide. The exhibit was shown in the City of Richmond, Charlottesville, Portsmouth, Fredericksburg, Lynchburg, Newport News, Covington, Bedford, Henrico County, Chesterfield County, Charles City County, and Loudoun County.

BREAK THE SILENCE CAMPAIGN

The Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance officially launched the Break the Silence Campaign in Fall 2004. Break the Silence is designed to inform family and friends of domestic violence victims about recognizing and responding to abuse. Campaign materials include a kit tailored for places of worship and other organizations in African-American communities. The kit contains a videotape, a workshop outline and handouts, and promotional items advertising the statewide Hotline. To date, more than 40 outreach kits have been distributed.

SOUTHERN WOMEN'S SHOW

The Office of the Attorney General (OAG) distributed educational brochures at the Richmond Southern Women's Show in April 2004. OAG representatives were on hand to provide materials and answer questions about available resources in the Commonwealth. Virginians Against Domestic Violence also sponsored a booth at the Show.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PREVENTION

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PREVENTION ENHANCEMENT AND LEADERSHIP THROUGH ALLIANCES (DELTA)

The Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance (VSDVAA) continued its implementation of the DELTA project. The goal of the DELTA project is to implement primary prevention strategies against domestic violence in local communities. During the first year of the three year project, VSDVAA identified 15 communities throughout the Commonwealth to take part in the project. Ongoing efforts include identifying and implementing local activities and programs to prevent domestic violence. The DELTA project will provide nearly $250,000 each year to support these prevention activities and programs.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE AWARENESS

ISN'T SHE A LITTLE YOUNG?

The Virginia Department of Health, Center for Injury and Violence Prevention (CIVP) sponsored a public awareness campaign in Northern Virginia, Richmond and Roanoke in June and July to help reduce sexual coercion and statutory rape. The campaign's message, "Isn't she a little young? Sex with a minor, don't go there." appeared on outdoor billboards in Richmond and Roanoke. Also, 255,000 postcards, posters, coasters and napkins carried the message in approximately 150 bars, restaurants and retail establishments in Richmond, Roanoke, Arlington, Falls Church and Alexandria. The effort was a follow-up to a pilot project CIVP conducted in Hampton Roads in July 2003, which showed that 55 percent of men interviewed at the close of the pilot remembered the campaign's message. The campaign has been featured in Teen Vogue magazine and on national network television programs. The CIVP also offers trainings on the issue of sexual coercion and exploitation of minor teens (statutory rape) to youth service providers. This curriculum also includes a video developed by CIVP on sexual coercion.

MEN ENDING VIOLENCE/MEN OF VISION

The goal of Men Ending Violence is to invite men to participate in efforts to reduce sexual violence. The Men Ending Violence program includes "Men of Strength" posters. It also features the Community Speakers Bureau, which provides sexual violence prevention education to local communities. The Men of Vision campaign provides young men with positive role models. The campaign features posters of a diverse group of men speaking out against sexual violence.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE PREVENTION

CHILD ASSAULT PREVENTION PROGRAM (CAP)

The Child Assault Prevention Program (CAP) is a nationally recognized community-based primary prevention program to prevent child sexual abuse, funded in Virginia with funds distributed by the Center for Injury and Violence Prevention.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE PREVENTION COORDINATOR (SVPC)

The SVPC provides technical assistance to local sexual assault prevention programs throughout the Commonwealth and collaborates with other prevention programs, such as the DELTA project. The SVPC is funded through a grant from the Virginia Department of Health.

OTHER INITIATIVES

I-CAN! PROJECT

The Office of the Executive Secretary of the Supreme Court of Virginia developed software, including audio and visual components, to fully implement the I-CAN Family Abuse Protective Order System. I-CAN! stands for Interactive Community Assistance Network. I-CAN! guides petitioners for protective orders through a series of questions about the dispute. The responses are used to complete a protective order petition that is ready to be filed with the court.

A local interdisciplinary work group was established to develop prototype information for family abuse protective order petitions in accordance with practices and policies of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court for the City of Richmond. A multi-phase evaluation was conducted including surveys of users, victim assistance professionals, judges, court personnel, and sheriffs to examine the system and identify changes necessary before launching the project statewide.

COURT REFERRAL METHODS FOR FAMILY ABUSE OFFENDERS

In response to legislation passed in 2004, the Office of the Executive Secretary of the Supreme Court of Virginia (OES) convened a multi-disciplinary advisory group to develop tools for courts to use to evaluate local programs for family abuse offenders and methods to refer offenders to such programs. Using the Virginia Batterer Intervention Program Standards as a resource, OES will develop a model court order to assist courts in referring family abuse offenders to local programs in the future.

GOOD CUTS FOR A GOOD CAUSE

The Office of the Attorney General, JCPenney Salons, and Virginians Against Domestic Violence held a drive during April 2004. Salon professionals donated their time to provide hair cuts with proceeds benefitting victims of domestic violence and sexual assault. With the funds raised, Virginians Against Domestic Violence established a fund to provide emergency assistance to shelter residents.

FORUM ON DOMESTIC VIOLENCE HOMICIDE

The Office of the Attorney General held a forum on domestic violence homicide in January. Speakers at the forum included the chief medical examiner of Virginia, Dr. Marcella Fierro, Richmond Commonwealth's Attorney David Hicks, and representatives from the Virginia Poverty Law Center, Virginians Against Domestic Violence and the Virginia State Crime Commission. Forum speakers discussed innovative ways to prevent domestic violence homicides and resources that are available to help victims. Among them include working with the U.S. Attorney's Office to prosecute federal domestic violence crimes and educating victims to ensure the effective enforcement of protective orders.

The Verizon Wireless Hopeline<sup>SM</sup> Virginia Partnership continued its efforts with another large donation of cell phones. Launched in January 2003, the Partnership collects used cell phones that are then either refurbished or recycled. Verizon Wireless purchases cell phones and donates airtime to victims of domestic violence. In October 2004, the Partnership donated over 1,200 used cell phones. The phones were collected by Richmond Police Detective Carol Adams. OAG satellite offices also collected over 200 cell phones. Verizon Wireless also partnered with the Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance to collect cell phones at the Summer Concert Series at the Virginia Beach Amphitheater.

OUTREACH TO UNDERSERVED COMMUNITIES

2ND INDIGENOUS WOMEN'S CONFERENCE

The 2nd Indigenous Women's Conference was held in August 2004. The primary sponsor was Native American Advocates Against Violence (NAAAV), whose mission is to assist Native Americans affected by community and family violence. The Conference included workshops on abuse, enhancing safety, personal finance, legislative advocacy, micro enterprise, stress management, self advocacy, and enforcing protective orders on and off reservations. Other sponsors of the Conference were the Office of Violence Against Women, U.S. Department of Justice, Virginia Department of Criminal Justice Services, the Office of the Attorney General, and Project Hope Quin Rivers Agency for Community Action, Inc.

PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES PROJECT

VADV and VAASA convened three committees of individuals to oversee a statewide disability outreach project. Of those who participated, 57% were people with disabilities. As a result of those meetings, VADV and VAASA developed a training program called Outreach, Access, Sensitivity, Respect: Providing domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking services to women with disabilities. VADV conducted six of these trainings throughout Virginia; forty-two percent of the participants were either disabled or served people with disabilities. The project also developed written resources, which were distributed to all training participants. The project also conducted a statewide needs assessment for persons with mental health and/or cognitive disabilities. A report based on the needs assessment will be issued in the future.

HISPANIC/LATINO FORUM

The Capital Region Domestic Violence Task Force organized the first Hispanic/Latino Forum on September 30, 2004. The forum featured focus groups to identify gaps in services and to improve collaboration between agencies and organizations in the Capital Region.

PEOPLE OF COLOR COMMITTEE

VSDVAA created an ad hoc committee to focus on the development of outreach education for domestic violence and sexual assault programs. The committee developed guidelines to outreach communities of color, including Native American, Latina, and African American. Altria Group, Inc.'s Doors of Hope program and Philip Morris USA provided funding for the development of public awareness and outreach materials.

HISPANIC/LATINO CONFERENCE

The Office of the Attorney General (OAG) sponsored a conference in Northern Virginia in December 2004. The one-day conference included information on available resources, VAWA protections for battered immigrants, and an update on Virginia laws on domestic and sexual violence. The OAG was assisted by representatives from ACTS/Turning Points, VSDVAA, and other organizations.

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

The OAG added information on its website on human trafficking and distributing informational brochures for victims of underserved populations. The OAG also revised its bilingual guide for law enforcement officers handling domestic violence calls. OAG staff also distributed information at community events such as the Read Center Community Fair, ¿Que Pasa? Festival, and several Pow Wows.

OTHER INITIATIVES

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE ACTION TEAM

The Virginia Department of Social Services (VDSS) formed the Commissioner's Domestic Violence Action Team (DVAT) in 2003. DVAT identified four broad areas that required attention: (1) policy, (2) funding and distribution, (3) coordination and collaboration, and (4) training. Since 2003, DVAT has spearheaded several changes at VDSS. Specifically, VDSS developed a single application process for all VDSS domestic violence funding. This change streamlined the funding process and reporting requirements for grantees. DVAT started working on several initiatives, including domestic violence training for DSS social work, eligibility, and intake staff. Members of DVAT include representatives from the Virginia Department of Social Services, the Virginia Department of Health, Virginia Commonwealth University's VISSTA program, the Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development, the Virginia Department of Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse Services, the Office of the Attorney General, the Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance, local Department of Social Services programs and local domestic and sexual violence programs.

VIRGINIA SEXUAL AND DOMESTIC VIOLENCE ACTION ALLIANCE

ACTION ALLIANCE

Virginia's two statewide coalitions, Virginians Aligned Against Sexual Assault and Virginians Against Domestic Violence, merged to create the Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance. The Action Alliance is the culmination of a two-year process of transforming the two agencies into one statewide coalition that addresses sexual and domestic violence. The new coalition celebrated the merger on November 20, 2004.

VIRGINIA SEXUAL VIOLENCE STATE PLAN

Under the leadership of the Virginia Department of Health, Center for Injury and Violence Prevention (CIVP), Virginia developed a multi-agency state plan to address sexual violence. The Virginia Sexual Violence State Plan Advisory Board was put in place to assure the implementation of the plan.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE ONLINE RESOURCE CENTER

The Virginia Department of Health, in collaboration with Virginians Aligned Against Sexual Assault have compiled an Online Resource Center that contains a summary listing of national and Virginia-specific resources related to sexual and domestic violence. Currently, there are over 1,400 entries. The resources include books, videos, curricula, posters, reports and brochures. Information on cost and where to obtain the resource is available for every listing. The online resource center may be viewed at www.svresources.org.

PROTECTIVE ORDER FACT SHEET

The Office of the Executive Secretary of the Supreme Court of Virginia also developed a fact sheet that contained important information about the conditions, procedures, and time limits applicable to family abuse protective orders. Fact sheets will be made available to all Court Services Units.

The Center for Injury and Violence Prevention (CIVP) offers two prevention programs designed to curb domestic violence and sexual assault. The goal of the Domestic Violence Prevention Program is to encourage health care providers to screen patients for domestic violence and to refer patients to domestic violence programs for assistance. The CIVP provides educational resources and training to health care providers. The goal of the Sexual Violence Prevention Program is to prevent rape and sexual assault in Virginia. This program provides training and resources on sexual assault, and contracts with local sexual assault crisis centers to provide primary prevention programming to local communities.

In August 2004, the CIVP released Childhood Sexual Assault Victimization in Virginia. Key findings of the report include: (1) almost half (43%) of perpetrators were identified as family members; (2) few victims received medical or mental health care for their sexual victimization; (3) few victims received law enforcement assistance or other advocacy assistance; and (4) female victims were much more likely to have been a victim of rape or attempted rape than male victims. Additional information is included in this report's appendices and the full report is available from the CIVP.

Pursuant to § 32.1-283.3 of the Code of Virginia, the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner (OCME) conducts surveillance of fatal family violence and provides technical assistance to local teams conducting family and intimate partner fatality review. The Virginia Code defines fatal family violence is defined as any fatality attributed to homicide or suicide occurring as a result of abuse between family members or intimate partners.

Specifically, the OCME collects information on fatal family violence in Virginia and publishes an annual report entitled Family and Intimate Partner Violence Homicide. The report provides an overview of homicide in the Commonwealth, with an emphasis on family and intimate partner related deaths. Annual reports are available beginning with 1999 data.

The OCME also provides training and technical assistance to communities interested in forming family and intimate partner fatality review teams as well as established teams. A model protocol was developed as a best practice guide for creating teams and reviewing cases. The protocol was developed with the guidance of a multidisciplinary advisory group whose members represented law enforcement, the judiciary, health care, social services and domestic violence services.

These efforts were funded in part through the Virginia Partnership to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protective Orders, 1997-WE-VX-0119 (Supplement) to the Virginia Department of Criminal Justice Services until June of 2004. This grant was awarded by the Violence Against Women Office, Office of Justice Programs, U.S. Department of Justice. The full report is available at www.vdh.state.va.us/medexam/violence.asp.

Since 1982, the Virginia Department of Social Services (VDSS) has provided the primary source of funding for domestic violence and sexual assault programs.

The Division of Family Services administers the Domestic Violence Prevention Services Program. The mission of the Division of Family Services is to promote and support the development of healthy families and protect Virginia's children and adults from abuse and neglect. VDSS monitors all funded domestic violence programs and sexual assault crisis centers and collects statistical data related to domestic violence and sexual assault. VDSS works with local domestic violence programs to enable communities to effectively serve victims and survivors of domestic violence and their families. Grants are awarded to public and private non-profit, incorporated agencies and organizations in Virginia whose programs have as their main purpose the provision of direct crisis services to victims of domestic violence.

The VDSS, in collaboration with VADV, recently identified several program outcomes for contracts for FY 2004 and created a reporting system for extracting the outcomes used in FY 2004. This process resulted in an outcome work group to review current measures and to make recommendations for changes.

The Office of the Attorney General, Domestic Violence Initiatives, promotes public awareness of domestic violence and sexual assault issues. Through the implementation of grant programs, promotion of sound public policy and legislation, and collaboration with state agencies, non-profit organizations and businesses, the Office works to eliminate domestic violence and sexual assault in Virginia. The Director also serves as the Statewide Facilitator for Victims of Domestic Violence, established pursuant to Code of Virginia § 2.2-515.1.

and treatment of family violence. A board of trustees appointed by the governor: (1) coordinates activities with other state efforts to prevent and treat violence within families; (2) encourages public awareness activities concerning violence within families; (3) administers and disburses funds available to the Family and Children's Trust Fund; (4) monitors the use of funds to ensure the accountability of the recipients of funds; (5) encourages, approves and accepts gifts, contributions, bequests, or grants in cash or otherwise from any source, public or private, to carry out the purposes of the Family and Children's Trust Fund; and (6) engages in fund-raising activities to expand and perpetuate the Family and Children's Trust Fund. FACT raises funds through sales of its KIDS FIRST license plate and the Virginia State Income Tax Check-off Program. FACT distributes funds to domestic violence and other programs through its local services and technology grants and community collaboration projects.

The Virginia Department of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS) is charged with planning and carrying out programs and initiatives to improve the functioning and effectiveness of the criminal justice system as a whole under Va. Code § 9.1-102. The Victims Services Section develops, coordinates, and funds victim/witness programs, sexual assault crisis centers, and programs which combat violence against women (V-STOP). The section offers services, training, and resources to victim service providers, law enforcement officials, allied professionals, prosecutors, and other local government officials. Additionally, DCJS: (1) provides technical assistance to localities in establishing, maintaining, and expanding victim assistance programs; (2) monitors, assesses, and disseminates information on victim-related legislation; and (3) monitors and evaluates grant programs.
