Background

During the 2019 Session of the Virginia General Assembly, policymakers enacted § 9.1-116.5 of Article 1 of Chapter 1 of Title 9.1 of the Code of Virginia, establishing the Sex Trafficking Response Coordinator at the Virginia Department of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS), effective July 1, 2019. The goals of the Coordinator, as outlined in Code of Virginia § 9.1-116.5, include creating a statewide plan for local and state agencies to identify and respond to victims of sex trafficking, promoting strategies for education, training, and awareness of sex trafficking and for the reduction of demand for commercial sex, and maintaining a directory of sex trafficking victims services in Virginia. The State Trafficking Response Coordinator (Coordinator) at DCJS leads this work.

During the 2025 Session of the Virginia General Assembly, policymakers amended Code of Virginia § 9.1-116.5. This was a technical amendment to replace the term “sex trafficking” with “human trafficking,” making the new title “Human Trafficking Response Coordinator” and updating the responsibilities. Effective July 1, 2025, this amendment is reflective of the work being done to respond to labor trafficking. The term “human trafficking” includes sex and labor trafficking. Updating the language broadens the codified responsibility of DCJS to respond to both forms of trafficking and is representative of the work already being done to address labor trafficking.

Code of Virginia § 9.1-116.5 also requires that the “Coordinator shall report annually on or before October 1 to the Governor and the General Assembly. The report shall include a summary of activities for the year and any recommendations to address sex trafficking within the Commonwealth.”

Activities

The Coordinator has five responsibilities outlined in Code of Virginia § 9.1-116.5. State fiscal year (SFY) 2025 activities related to each responsibility are described below.

1. Create a statewide plan for local and state agencies to identify and respond to victims of sex trafficking.

DCJS collaborated with local, regional, state, and national agencies to improve the identification of and response to victims of sex trafficking in the Commonwealth of Virginia. DCJS participated in 78 partnership building activities with the goals of (i) increasing capacity to identify and serve victims, (ii) increasing victims’ access to a range of services, (iii) increasing awareness of the issue of human trafficking, and (iv) increasing sharing of professional expertise.

DCJS collaborated with other state agencies to build capacity to identify and respond to victims of sex trafficking. Meetings were held with representatives from the Virginia State Police, the Office of the Attorney General, the Commonwealth’s Attorneys’ Services Council, the Virginia Department of Social Services, and the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation.

The Coordinator facilitated training at events hosted by the Office of the Attorney General, the Virginia Department of Social Services, and the Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources. Presentations were also provided for the Advisory Committee on Juvenile Justice and Prevention and the Advisory Committee to the Court Appointed Special Advocate and Children’s Justice Act Programs hosted by DCJS.

The Coordinator also participated in meetings of the National Compendium of State Run Anti-Trafficking Initiatives to learn about initiatives that have been successful in identifying and responding to victims of human trafficking in other states.

Human Trafficking Multidisciplinary Response Teams

In 2024, the Virginia General Assembly established Code of Virginia § 15.2-1627.6, requiring the Commonwealth's Attorney in each political subdivision to coordinate the establishment of a multidisciplinary response to human trafficking. DCJS is required to establish protocols for human trafficking response teams to guide the work of the Commonwealth's Attorneys.

In SFY 2025, Commonwealth's Attorneys, or their designees, from 33 localities contacted the Coordinator regarding this new legislative requirement. Some localities are partnering with other surrounding counties or cities to establish a multidisciplinary response to human trafficking. The Coordinator was invited to 19 meetings and attended 15 of those meetings. Guidance was provided to developing teams, as requested, and education and training opportunities were communicated. The information gathered during these meetings is being utilized in the development of protocols for human trafficking response teams.

2. Coordinate the development of standards and guidelines for treatment programs for victims of sex trafficking.

DCJS researched models for standards and guidelines and identified existing standards and guidelines for sex trafficking treatment programs in other states, as well as the Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Program Professional Standards. Meetings were held with representatives from other states to learn more about their standards and their development processes.

DCJS completed the first draft of the standards and guidelines for treatment programs for victims of sex trafficking in SFY 2025. A workgroup is being developed to provide an opportunity for stakeholder feedback and enhance the quality of the standards and guidelines.

3. Maintain a list of programs that provide treatment or specialized services to victims of sex trafficking and make such list available to law enforcement agencies, attorneys for the Commonwealth, crime victim and witness assistance programs, the Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice, the Virginia Department of Social Services, the Virginia Department of Education, and school divisions.

DCJS developed and maintains the Virginia Human Trafficking Resource Directory, a listing of human trafficking victim services providers in the Commonwealth. This list also includes organizations that provide education, training, and awareness of human trafficking. The Resource Directory appears on the Human Trafficking Response page under the DCJS public facing website. The link and the Resource Directory can be found in Appendix A.

DCJS is in communication with treatment programs for victims of sex trafficking throughout the Commonwealth. DCJS updates the Resource Directory as changes and new providers are identified. In SFY 2025, individual meetings were held with 35 providers to discuss services, successful strategies, and challenges to working with victims of sex trafficking. Technical assistance was provided for existing and developing programs.

4. Oversee the development of a curriculum to be completed by persons convicted of solicitation of prostitution under § 18.2-346.01.

The Coordinator identified existing programs in the Commonwealth for persons convicted of solicitation of prostitution. In SFY 2026, DCJS will research best practices for these demand-based treatment programs and begin development of a curriculum for sex buyers in Virginia.

5. Promote strategies for the education, training, and awareness of sex trafficking and for the reduction of demand for commercial sex.

DCJS facilitated education and training activities that reached a total of 15,034 people across the Commonwealth in SFY 2025. A variety of learning formats were utilized to meet the needs of the constituents, including in-person courses and presentations as well as webinars. Professionals trained include, but are not limited to, law enforcement, prosecutors, victim advocates, mental health and medical providers, social services, and court services.

In addition to the training courses described in detail below, DCJS provided sex trafficking education and training to 676 constituents through partnerships with local, regional, and state agencies.

DCJS collaborated with other state agencies to provide human trafficking education and training, including the Virginia State Police, the Commonwealth’s Attorneys’ Services Council, the Office of the Attorney General, the Virginia Department of Social Services, and the Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources. DCJS also responded to training requests from local law enforcement agencies, victim services providers, probation offices, medical professionals, and airport and hospitality staff.

Building Bridges Conference and Human Trafficking Post-Conference

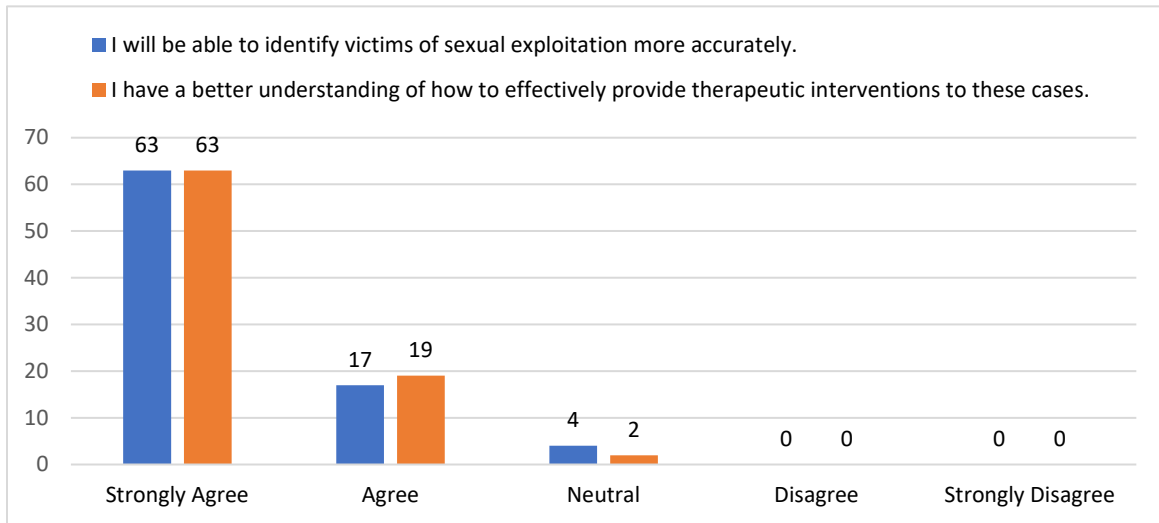

In October 2024, DCJS hosted a conference titled “Building Bridges: Collaborative Approaches to Prevent Domestic Violence and Support Survivors.” The first two and a half days of the event focused on domestic violence. A half-day “Bridging the Gap: Human Trafficking Post-Conference” was held to provide education on human trafficking. The conference was attended by over 200 professionals in the criminal justice and victim services systems.

Sexual Exploitation Treatment and Training Services (SETTS)

In partnership with consulting group Trauma & Hope, DCJS coordinated three Sexual Exploitation Treatment and Training Services (SETTS) courses. Trauma & Hope developed this course in 2020 to build capacity of effective human trafficking therapeutic services in the Commonwealth. The purpose of SETTS is to equip professionals to provide trauma-informed services to both adult and minor victims of sex trafficking. The course covers topics such as screening, assessment, clinical interventions, organizational capacity building, and multidisciplinary approaches to preventing and addressing human trafficking. As noted previously, this course also offers information on sex buyers and demand-based treatment programs.

DCJS coordinated three five-day SETTS courses for multidisciplinary professionals, training a total of 95 people. In addition to providing therapeutic tools and interventions to utilize with victim of sex trafficking, this course promotes multidisciplinary, team-based approaches to addressing and preventing trafficking. The traditional audience for this course has included mental health clinicians and victim advocates, but there has been an increase in attendance by other disciplines including social services, law enforcement, prosecutors, court services, and forensic nurses.

Of the 95 professionals who completed the SETTS course instructed by Trauma & Hope in SFY 2025, 84 completed the course evaluation survey. The chart displays evaluation responses to the following statements:

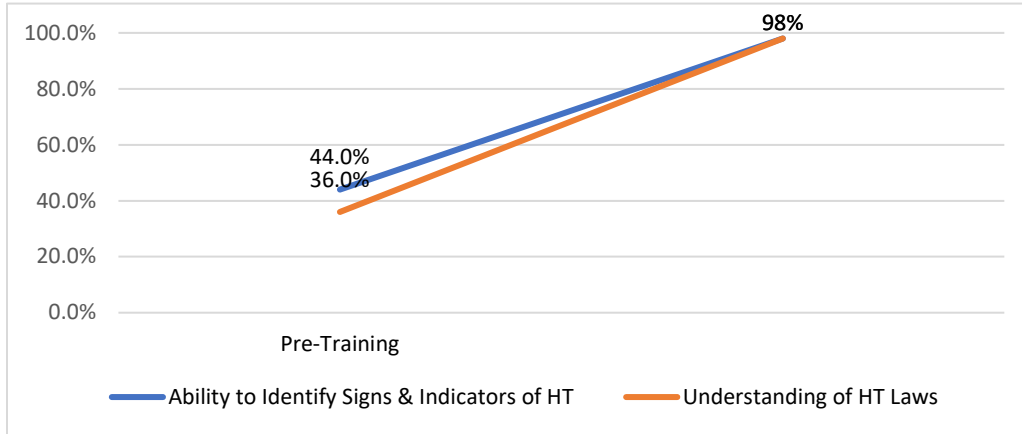

Human Trafficking Investigation and Prosecution

In partnership with Virginia State Police (VSP) and the Commonwealth’s Attorneys’ Services Council (CASC), DCJS hosted a Human Trafficking Investigation and Prosecution course in January 2025 during National Human Trafficking Prevention Month. This course is designed to improve investigative techniques centered on victim needs and bring human trafficking cases to prosecution. The consulting group, Human Trafficking Institute (HTI), instructed this course. HTI developed the course with input from DCJS, VSP, and CASC to properly address the needs of the Commonwealth. Sixty-eight law enforcement officers and prosecutors completed the four-day course.

Of the 68 investigators and prosecutors who completed the Human Trafficking Investigation and Prosecution course instructed by HTI in SFY 2025, 52 completed the course evaluation survey.

Prior to training, an average of 44% of participants surveyed reported that they believed they were familiar with common signs and indicators of human trafficking compared to 98% post-training. Also, after training, 98% of participants felt they had a good understanding of the Virginia human trafficking laws, as compared to an average of 36% pre-training.

Human Trafficking Victim Identification for Criminal Justice Professionals

In SFY 2024, DCJS piloted a Human Trafficking Victim Identification course for law enforcement. Instructed by Human Trafficking Institute (HTI), this course teaches professionals how to identify potential human trafficking and report cases to the appropriate parties.

Due to the positive feedback from attendees and requests for training from constituents, DCJS hosted this course five times in SFY 2025. To encourage attendance from professionals throughout the Commonwealth, the course was held in Bristol, Hanover, Louisa, Newport News, and Salem, Virginia. DCJS also opened the course up to a wider audience of criminal justice and first responders, including sworn law enforcement, fire and EMS, dispatchers, pretrial and probation, corrections, court services, and victim witness advocates. In total, 165 criminal justice professionals and first responders were trained.

The SETTS, Human Trafficking Investigation and Prosecution, and Human Trafficking Victim Identification for Law Enforcement courses are all held in-person. These courses are offered in multiple localities to meet the needs and build capacity of professionals throughout Virginia.

Human Trafficking Awareness for Hotels

Code of Virginia § 35.1-15.1 requires hotel employees in the Commonwealth to complete training on recognizing and reporting suspected human trafficking. DCJS was required to develop an online course at no cost to hotel proprietors and employees. Hotel proprietors can utilize the online course provided by DCJS or an alternative online or in-person training course approved by DCJS. The State Board of Health enforces the regulations for the required training.

The Human Trafficking Awareness for Hotels course was developed by DCJS in SFY 2023. In SFY 2025, 1,946 hotel employees completed the course. This course was translated into additional languages and is now available in English, Spanish, Bengali, Hindi, and Gujarati. DCJS also developed flyers in each of those five languages that are available to hotels free of charge. The flyers provide staff with a visual tool outlining the indicators of human trafficking and how to make a report to law enforcement.

Human Trafficking Awareness for Colleges

Code of Virginia § 23.1-808.1 requires all first-year students of public institutions of higher education to complete human trafficking awareness and prevention training. Although not required, DCJS developed an online course for college students on recognizing, preventing, and reporting human trafficking. This course is recommended for college students and young adults, parents, and university staff. Along with sex trafficking and labor trafficking, this course covers intersecting topics that are especially relevant to young adults, including OnlyFans, sextortion, stripping, and sugaring.

DCJS also provides the option for Virginia colleges and universities to implement this course campus-wide. Institutions can host the course on their own learning management system (LMS). This allows institutions to monitor student compliance and students will not have to create an account for an external LMS. Since it was made available on July 18, 2024, 10,269 people have taken this course, and 13 institutions have implemented it campus-wide.

Human Trafficking 101

DCJS developed a Human Trafficking 101 online course to promote education and awareness of human trafficking among the public. This course includes information on what human trafficking is, common myths and misconceptions, and how to recognize and report suspected human trafficking. The course is available in English and Spanish. Since being made available on October 28, 2024, 1,775 people have taken this course.

These online courses are available for free on the human trafficking page of the DCJS website. Each of the courses provide information on Virginia-specific reporting mechanisms, including the Virginia State Police human trafficking tip line and the Virginia Department of Social Services hotlines.

Future Activities and Recommendations

The Coordinator met with numerous constituents involved in identifying and responding to human trafficking in Virginia. Two main challenges have been communicated frequently by both criminal justice professionals and victim services providers.

1. Victims of human trafficking often have needs that require specialized services and long-term treatment. Given the increase in identification of human trafficking, there are not enough services to meet the needs of victims in Virginia. Constituents report that programs are routinely at capacity and law enforcement recovering victims often struggle to identify appropriate and available services.
2. There is a lack of centralized and comprehensive data on human trafficking in the Commonwealth. Data on human trafficking in Virginia is requested by constituents to inform resource allocation, training, and policymaking efforts.

Recognizing these concerns, DCJS will undertake two projects to gain a comprehensive understanding of the needs for victim services and data collection. The Coordinator will also continue to advance the responsibilities outlined in Code of Virginia § 9.1-116.5, and additional activities as directed elsewhere in the Code.

Demand Reduction and Safe Harbor Pilot Program

During the 2023 Session of the Virginia General Assembly, policymakers directed DCJS to establish a two-year pilot program titled Demand Reduction and Safe Harbor for Domestic Minor Sex Trafficked Youth.¹ The legislation directed DCJS, in consultation with the Virginia State Crime Commission, to identify a suitable locality to administer the pilot program. The goals are to reduce the arrest of sex trafficking victims, reduce demand for commercial sexual exploitation by focusing on buyers, and establish high-quality education, alternative employment opportunities, and life skills for victims. DCJS will continue to provide consultation to the pilot locality.

Online Courses

In 2024, the Virginia General Assembly amended Code of Virginia § 9.1-141 to add human trafficking recognition and reporting to the DCJS training standards for unarmed and armed security officers, couriers, security canine handlers, and alarm respondents. Code of Virginia § 9.1-102 was also amended requiring DCJS to develop an online training course for security personnel to fulfill the requirement set forth in § 9.1-141. DCJS will move forward with development of this course as regulations are advanced.

In 2025, the Virginia General Assembly amended Code of Virginia § 9.1-102, requiring DCJS to develop an online training course for Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) Authority retail licensees and employees on recognizing and reporting suspected human trafficking. DCJS is also responsible for approving alternative online or in-person training courses.

DCJS is developing an online human trafficking training course for Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) at their request. DCR will provide this course to their employees and volunteers to increase awareness and learn to recognize and respond to suspected human trafficking.

Victim Services Needs Assessment

DCJS will assess the existing services available to victims of human trafficking and identify gaps. To determine the specific needs, DCJS will utilize the gap analyses currently underway by the Virginia Department of Social Services and the Office of the Attorney General. DCJS will also identify the funding sources that are currently supporting human trafficking victim services and assess the sustainability of those funding sources. Additional surveying may be necessary to gather more information. This information will be used to clearly identify needed resources and funding.

Data Collection

DCJS will assess the scope of data collection on human trafficking in Virginia. State and local agencies utilize different screening tools and data collection systems. DCJS will request assistance from state and local agencies to understand what human trafficking data is being collected. Gaps in data collection will be identified.

Appendix A: The Virginia Human Trafficking Resource Directory

The Resource Directory appears on the Human Trafficking Response page² under the DCJS public facing website. This version was current as of July 1, 2025. The Resource Directory is updated on a rolling basis. It is recommended to reference the Resource Directory on the website for the most up to date version.
